Death Threats Are Given Schusters And Garageman

Shadow of Terror Hovers in Sutton Connection; $25,000 Reward Is Suggested

New York, March 11 (AP) — Death threats to a mourning family and to a garageman involved in the arrest of bank robber Willie Sutton today spurred New York city's grimmest killer-hunt in a dozen years.

For 19,000 policemen the "No. 1 job" was to trap the slayer who in gangland-style Saturday night shot down pants salesman Arnold Schuster, 24. The latter's tip led to Sutton's arrest.

The scope of the manhunt was emphasized last night when Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri said he would ask the city Board of Estimate to vote a $25,000 reward "for the capture of the murderer."

Not since 1940 has the city put up such a high reward, and then it was in the killing of two detectives.

Even as Schuster was buried yesterday, the reports of new death threats extended the shadow of terror over Brooklyn.

A report said that just two hours before the funeral, Schuster's family received this warning: "One death isn't enough, there will be others." It was not clear whether the message was mailed or phoned.

Police had no comment on this report, Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan noted that a special 24-hour guard had been placed on the family.

Said He Rejected Guard

Young Schuster received several threats before his death, and police said later he had rejected offers of a guard.

While the Schusters were at the funeral, a threat was directed at Jacke Peene, a garageman who was helping Sutton with a stalled car shortly before his capture Feb. 18.

A man telephoned Peene's wife, Mary, that she should advise her husband "to take out a larger insurance policy and not to take long walks."

Peene immediately was given a police guard at his service station, while his wife and their two small

Gunman Is Killed In Store Holdup

Companion Is Wounded as Police Surprise Pair in Crime

New York, March 11 (AP)—A youthful gunman was killed and his teen-age buddy was wounded in a fierce liquor store gun battle with police who surprised them last night in an attempted holdup.

Police Sgt. Earl Campazzi was critically injured in the wild fray.

The wounded gunman, identified as John Ortez, 17, was taken to New York Hospital, where his condition was reported as not serious.

Police today identified the dead gunman as Burtram Brown, 17, of 920 Tinton avenue, the Bronx.

Patrolman Frank Rinaldi, who is Campazzi's radio car partner, said they had been watching the two gunmen who appeared suspicious. The two officers followed the two into the East 69th street liquod store, Rinaldi added, when the two men remained inside for what seemed an unusual length of time.

Lunges at Gunman

As soon as the police entered, Rinaldi said, Ortez pressed a gun against him and told Campazzi to drop his drawn weapon. Instead, Rinaldi said he lunged at Ortez to start the battle.

With bullets flying, Mrs. Luke Tyler, 37-year-old wife of the store owner, crawled out of the store and called for more officers. Six radio cars sped to the scene.

Patrolman John Milesh, one of the first to arrive, said he spotted Brown, who already was wounded, in a back room and shot him down as he broke for freedom.

Some of the $463 in loot was found in a paper bag Ortez was carrying, police said, while the rest was scattered around the store.

Ortez was booked on charges of robbery, assault and weapons law violation.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The position of the Treasury March 7: Net budget receipts $160,707,381.71; budget expenditures $188,243,020.93; cash balance $4,222,797,226.81; customs receipts for month $11,169,827.98; budget, receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $35,092,205,020.52; budget expenditures for fiscal year $43,043,769,669.30; budget deficit $7,951,564,648.78; total debt $260,270,948,666.38; decrease under previous day $15,218,980.08; gold assets $23,290,679,737.02.

Four Finalists Are Chosen Monday in Mack Show Trials

Four finalists for the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour auditions here on April 22 were selected last night from over 30 acts in Kingston High School Auditorium before a capacity crowd. Narel of Lake Katrine, soloist; and Raymond Yerry of 70 Harwich street, who plays a guitar and sings.

The alternates chosen were Shirley Albright, twirler; Janet and Ronald Herrick, with their marionettes; Ralph Assion, 13, pianist; and Lauren Carpinelli, 11, soloist.

More than 900 persons filled the high school auditorium. It was the largest crowd to enjoy any of the three Kingston semi-final auditions.

Rain Gives Flood Scare To Valley

Small Streams Swollen but Main Creek Stays Normal Is Report of Several Observers

Roads Flooded

Disaster of Last Year Is Keeping Residents of Area Worried

Recalling the serious flood which visited this area on March 30, 1951, residents of the Esopus valley cast wondering glances to the sky today, after an all-night rain.

Many were apprehensive, but reports up to noon today indicated there was little likelihood of flood stage being reached.

A heavy rain began falling shortly after midnight, and by 8 a. m. today the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of New York had recorded a one-half inch fall at Brown Station, Ashokan reservoir.

Corporal Ray Dunn of the state police at Phoenicia reported at noon today that there had been no rise in the upper Esopus valley. Smaller streams lower down were reported to be swollen this morning, but had not caused the main streams to rise.

Officials of New York's water department were watching the streams and gauges, but also reported stream flow not above normal.

Snow Is Cushion

They theorized that the amount of snow remaining in the mountains was absorbing the rainfall, having a cushioning effect upon the run-off.

Some flooding of highways and intersections were reported in sections of the county, but were apparently due to local conditions such as clogged catch basins rather than to actual flood conditions.

An Ellenville resident coming to Kingston this morning reported water over the highway in the Accord area, and numerous telephone calls were received at the mayor's office and the board of public works office in Kingston relative to flooding of intersections where excess water had not been carried off rapidly enough through the catch basins.

At Hurley this morning it was reported the Esopus creek was rising but there appeared to be no immediate danger.

Flood Conscious

Ulster county residents are more than usually flood conscious at this season because a year ago, on March 30, 1951, one of the most disastrous floods in 35 years spread wide damage to the Esopus valley, resulting in damage to homes and buildings along the stream and in the city of Kingston. Hundreds of persons were driven from their homes at that time. Last year's flood was greatly increased by the overflow from the Ashokan reservoir which at that time was filled to capacity and was unable to act as a flood control basin.

Wind Hits New York

In the New York area this morning, gale force winds, mixed with rain, pounded the streets of New York, turning umbrellas wrong side out, ripping off hats and making nervous women cling to lampposts for support, the Associated Press reported.

The howling gusts made Manhattan's skyscraper canyons like the inside of a wind tunnel. There was a sustained south wind of 50-miles-an-hour, with gusts up to more than 60 miles per hour.

Pedestrians, their garments streaming, leaned against the gale as they hurried along, some briefly grabbed supports, before scuttering to shelter.

Boats swayed and creaked in New York harbor as the wind turned that usually quiet water into turbulence.

In Staten Island, police headquarters was without lights for over an hour early today as a result of the combined wind and rain.

The weather bureau said the hammering winds were expected to continue throughout the day in the metropolitan area, and much of the northeast. Storm warnings were issued from Block Island to Cape Hatteras.

The cyclonic conditions were attributed to a low-pressure storm system that hit the southern plains yesterday, and has been deepening as it moved northeastward.

Temperatures were in the upper 40's, as the wind rampaged turning the warm rain into bullet-like pellets.

Afraid of Gunmen

New York, March 11 (AP)—Counsel for Harry Gross says the former bookmaker refused to testify against alleged associates in the police department because he "did not want to be on the receiving end" of gangland gunfire. Attorney Michael Kern made the statement before the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court yesterday in seeking reduction of Gross' 12-year prison sentence. The court reserved decision.

Truck Tax Going To Appeals Court For Legal Test

Schirick Decision Affirmed Unanimously by Five Appellate Judges on Monday

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Bearing a unanimous Appellate division endorsement of its constitutionality, the state's weight-milage tax on big trucks today headed for a test before the Court of Appeals.

The five-judge Appellate Division of State Supreme Court yesterday affirmed a decision by Justice Harry E. Schirick, Schirick had held on Jan. 24 that the tax law, enacted by the '51 Legislature, was constitutional.

The Appellate court said, in a memorandum, that questions of law involved should be reviewed by the state's highest tribunal.

The Appellate division continued until Friday an order restraining the state from collecting the tax from trucks who comply with other provisions of the law.

Friday is the closing day of the Court of Appeal's current term. It will convene again in April.

Raymond J. Gannon, clerk of the court, said "if an appeal is taken and counsel for both sides ask to be heard promptly, the case will be set down for argument Thursday."

Will Go to Highest Court

In New York, N. E. Kelby, attorney for a truckers' group organized to fight the tax, said the case "definitely" would be appealed — to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary.

If the Court of Appeals should, as appears likely, carry the case over to its next term, a new stay would have to be granted by a judge of the high court.

The tax ranges from 0.6 to 2.4 cents a mile on the loaded or unloaded weight of New York-registered and out-of-state trucks weighing more than 18,000 pounds.

The Empire State Truck Operators and Allied Industrial Committee, which claims to represent 250 trucking organizations, challenged the legality of the tax last Sept. 21. It was to have become effective Oct. 1.

35 Leave for Service

A total of 35 young men left this city this morning for induction into the armed forces under the Selective Service System. Local Draft Board No. 18, covering the city of Kingston, sent 10 of the men, the remaining 25 being sent by Local Board No. 19, covering Ulster county outside the city.

Temporary Order Given in Emergency to Protect Nation's Lifelines

Cleveland, March 11 (AP)—A federal judge today ordered three rail unions to end their strike and to keep the walkout from spreading to other lines.

Judge Emerich B. Freed granted a government suit to end immediately the strike started Sunday morning against the New York Central Lines west of Buffalo and the St. Louis Terminal Line.

He scheduled a hearing for March 19 on the government's request for a permanent injunction. The hearing will start two days before the 10-day temporary injunction granted today expires.

Unless the engineers, firemen and conductors end their strike, they are liable to fines and imprisonment for contempt of court.

Calls Roads Lifeline

"The railroads are part of our lifeline," Judge Freed declared in overriding union attorneys' objections to the restraining order. "The emergency is so great, and the crisis so apparent, that this court must issue a temporary restraining order.

Justice Department attorneys filed the action for the army, which has controlled the railroads since Aug. 27, 1950. Their petition also asked the court to keep the engineers, firemen and conductors from spreading the walkout to other railroads.

Since the surprise strike started Sunday morning, only the New York Central Lines West of Buffalo and the St. Louis terminal have been targets of the three rail operating brotherhoods. About 6,000 men are on strike, and an additional 25,000 New York Central employes have been laid off.

Would Punish Leaders

Failure to end the strike or its extension would put heads of the three unions in contempt of court and make them liable to fines and imprisonment.

A year ago when the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen extended their "sick" walkouts in defiance of a federal court order, that union was fined a total of $100,000 in U. S. District Courts at Chicago and Washington.

The injunction request came after heads of the three unions meeting here took no action on an army demand they end the walkout or face "appropriate action." The army said the defense effort could not permit an interruption in transportation.

The strike has slowed down freight shipments, caused some industrial layoffs and forced about 20,000 daily NYC passengers to find other rides. Industrial lay-offs

Batista Promises He Will Clean Up Cuba; Socarras Asks Asylum

Fleeing President Is at Embassy; Leaves Palace as Ex-Ruler Returns to Power

After Gamblers

Orders Guns Turned In, Promises to Continue Public Works

Havana, Cuba, March 11 (AP)—Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's resurgent strongman, today formally proclaimed himself in charge of "all powers and functions" of both the executive and legislative branches of the government.

The former president and behind-the-scenes dictator who rose to power again yesterday in a swift, almost bloodless revolution announced a series of "statutes of government," including a 45-day suspension of the right to strike.

President Carlos Prio Socarras, who fled the presidential palace after Batista and his Junta of 15 or 20 army captains and lieutenants had siezed control of all major military and police establishments here, slipped into the Mexican embassy early today and asked for asylum.

Assumes All Power

Batista's proclamation said the revolutionary Junta—that apparently what his government will be called—had resolved that he assume the "leadership of the state" and therefore "I take charge of organizing and directing the executive and legislative powers."

He pledged to sweep Cuba clean of "thieving and gangsterism in government."

In addition to suspending congress and constitutional guarantees for 45 days, he authorized all persons having guns illegally to turn them into police within five days without giving their names or facing prosecution.

To Continue Program

He ordered continued the 100 million dollar public works program and said he would guarantee payments to contractors. This work includes a three million dollar tunnel being dug under Almendares river between Havana and the Miramar residential suburb.

Meanwhile, Cuba was bouncing back to normal. Airplane traffic resumed, banks and other businesses reopened, bus service began, schools reopened, threats of a general strike proposed by adherants of Prio subsided.

Prio went to bed immediately upon reaching the Mexican embassy, saying he was exhausted.

Takes Over Estate

Batista's army took control of his many million dollar country estate outside Havana and mounted a guard over his personal effects at the presidential palace.

The estate is one of many that Prio owns and his opposition has accused him of grafting, just as he and others charged his predecessor, Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau and others in his govern-

Saulpaugh Signs Waiver, Testifies In Hudson Probe

Sheriff in Grand Jury Room 50 Minutes to Tell About Official Office Duties

Hudson, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Sheriff Milton V. Saulpaugh signed a limited waiver of immunity and testified today before the special grand jury investigating gambling, other vice and possible political corruption in Columbia county.

Saulpaugh was in the grand jury room 50 minutes. When he emerged he said he had no comment.

Saulpaugh, who quit as chairman of the Republican County Committee shortly after his appearance before the State Crime Commission at a public hearing here last December, was the first witness before the grand jury.

Thomas Mason, chief assistant to Special Prosecutor Paul W. Williams, said that Saulpaugh had signed a "limited waiver of immunity."

Thus he was required to answer only questions related to his official duties as sheriff.

Protected by Waiver

If he had refused to sign the waiver he would have been subject to removal from office.

A general waiver, which is not required, would have been a waiving of Saulpaugh's constitutional right not to answer—on grounds he might incriminate himself—questions on other matters besides his conduct as sheriff.

The 23-member jury was completed Feb. 26 and had been in recess since the following day.

At the crime commission hearing in December, Saulpaugh refused to answer several questions pertaining to contributions to the Republican party—on the ground any answers he might give might tend to incriminate him.

Tells About 'Lay Off'

Another witness before the commission, Sam Raco, described as a one-time gambler, testified that Saulpaugh had attended a meeting in the county court house at which, Raco said, "they" told Police Chief Vincent Howe, now dead, to lay off a big crap game in Hudson.

Raco said that County Attorney Thomas P. Kennedy and former Mayor Earl J. Colwell, both Re-

Suit for $80,000 Under Way Here

J. B. Campbell and Wife Bring Suit Against Alessio Bovino

An action for $80,000 growing out of an accident at Wappingers Falls, Feb. 9, 1951, was taken up in Supreme Court Monday afternoon before Justice Taylor and a jury.

John Boyd Campbell and his wife, Ruth, seek to recover money damages from Allessio A. Bovino of Wappingers Falls for injuries which they suffered in a collision between their car and that of Bovino near an intersection in Wappingers Falls.

Mrs. Campbell alleges she sustained a severe cut on the head and face which has left a permanent scar, a bad break of her left arm which has not yet healed and will require additional surgery, injuries to the legs, knees and hands. She claims she suffered concussion when her car was driven against a pole on a slippery pavement and has been unable to work since the accident. She was employed at $46 a week prior to the accident. She seeks $50,000. Her husband who was also injured asks a total of $30,000 for his injuries, hospital bills and loss of services.

Nardone Appears

Michael Nardone appears for plaintiff and E. Rosen of Rosen and Rosen of Poughkeepsie appear for defendant with Judge Andrew J. Cook as trial counsel.

Campbell claims he was driving his wife's car enroute to work, accompanied by his wife, when at East Main and Moran avenue in Wappingers Falls the Bovino car made a left turn and struck the Campbell car driving it against poles.

Campbell alleges that at the time the Bovino car collided the driver was unable to see because of an icy windshield and steamed up windows and that Bovino had not yet reached the intersection

Takes Over

A revolutionary movement led by Former President Fulgencio Batista (above) broke out in Cuba early March 10. Batista was Cuba's strong man from 1933 to 1944, and was a declared candidate in the presidential elections scheduled for next June. He had the support of the Army in the revolt.

Phone Raises Announced For Kingston

New state-wide telephone rates which go into effect on Friday will mean an increase of 25 cents a month for residence service and 75 cents monthly for business and semi-public telephones in Kingston, according to C. E. Burnett, manager here for the New York Telephone Company.

Extension telephones will cost five cents more for residence and 10 cents more for business subscribers.

For message rate customers, Burnett explained the new schedule calls for five cents additional for the first local calls or message units, 4½ cents for the next 500 and four cents thereafter.

Tolls Unchanged

"Toll rates between New York state points remain generally unchanged," Burnett said. "However, some calls of 14-25 miles are increased five cents for the initial period."

The Associated Press reported from New York that telephone users will have to pay 15 per cent Federal taxes on the increases. Therefore, as an example, the 75-cent business phone will amount to about 88 cents.

The rate boost was authorized on Monday by the state Public Service Commission. Additional revenue of $20,700,000 will be realized by the company from the new rates. A total annual boost of $25,400,000 had been sought by the firm.

Won't Meet Costs

In a statement issued Monday night, Keith S. McHugh, president of the New York Telephone Company, said the added revenue will help, but it is not enough to offset the effect of inflation on costs in the last two years. "This naturally remains a cause for concern," he said.

"As long as these costs and the costs of new construction continue at their present levels, or go higher under the impact of inflation, the company will face the prospect of its earnings continuing to wear away," McHugh said.

He contended that the new rates will add "less than a penny a day" to the average residence bill, and that in the last 22 years the telephone company's price increase has totalled only 15 per cent. He said telephone service is still in the "bargain counter" class compared with increases in consumer prices generally which have gone up "91 per cent since 1939."

Refuses Rent Injunction

New York, March 11 (AP)—A federal judge has refused a temporary injunction to keep the Public Housing Administration from boosting rents in Shanks Village, Orangeburg, N. Y., by 15 per cent. Some 200 residents of the government-operated veterans' emergency housing project—a former army camp—had sought the injunction. They said the rent increase was unlawful and beyond their financial means. Judge John F. X. McGohey disagreed yesterday. Besides refusing the injunction, he vacated a temporary restraining order against the defendants. The village management announced last January that the increase would be effective March 1. Some 1,400 persons live at Shanks. Counsel for the residents said rents ranged between $29 and $38.

Hoehing Top Man On Sergeant List

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today announced an eligibility list of 12 names as a result of the examination last November for the position of police sergeant.

The Board of Police Commissioners usually makes its initial selection from the first three on the list. They are:

Charles A. Hoehing, of 303 East Chester street, with the top rating of 94.57 per cent; Francis J. Fagan, 150 Fair street, 92.73 per cent, and Grover S. Hoffay, 22 Navara street, 92.35 per cent.

The position of sergeant will be left vacant when one of the two lieutenants is moved up to the rank of captain and a present sergeant becomes a lieutenant. The results of the examinations for captain and lieutenant have not been made known to the local civil service commission to date.

Others on the sergeants' list in their order of rating are:

4. Walter J. Van Steenburgh, 109 Main street, 91.22.
5. Carl C. Janasiewicz, 48 Jarrold street, 90.80.
6. Thomas W. Tomshaw, 88 East Chester street, 89.93.

10. Guernsey Burger, Jr., 129 Stephan street, 86.95.
11. William F. Hanley, 212 Ten-Broeck avenue, 85.98.
12. Louis W. Sapp, Jr., 159 Washington avenue, 84.76.

Snow Is Cushion

They theorized that the amount of snow remaining in the mountains was absorbing the rainfall, having a cushioning effect upon the run-off.

Some flooding of highways and intersections were reported in sections of the county, but were apparently due to local conditions such as clogged catch basins rather than to actual flood conditions.

An Ellenville resident coming to Kingston this morning reported water over the highway in the Accord area, and numerous telephone calls were received at the mayor's office and the board of public works office in Kingston relative to flooding of intersections where excess water had not been carried off rapidly enough through the catch basins.

At Hurley this morning it was reported the Esopus creek was rising but there appeared to be no immediate danger.

Flood Conscious

Ulster county residents are more than usually flood conscious at this season because a year ago, on March 30, 1951, one of the most disastrous floods in 35 years spread wide damage to the Esopus valley, resulting in damage to homes and buildings along the stream and in the city of Kingston. Hundreds of persons were driven from their homes at that time. Last year's flood was greatly increased by the overflow from the Ashokan reservoir which at that time was filled to capacity and was unable to act as a flood control basin.

Wind Hits New York

In the New York area this morning, gale force winds, mixed with rain, pounded the streets of New York, turning umbrellas wrong side out, ripping off hats and making nervous women cling to lampposts for support, the Associated Press reported.

The howling gusts made Manhattan's skyscraper canyons like the inside of a wind tunnel. There was a sustained south wind of 50-miles-an-hour, with gusts up to more than 60 miles per hour.

Pedestrians, their garments streaming, leaned against the gale as they hurried along, some briefly grabbed supports, before scuttering to shelter.

Boats swayed and creaked in New York harbor as the wind turned that usually quiet water into turbulence.

In Staten Island, police headquarters was without lights for over an hour early today as a result of the combined wind and rain.

The weather bureau said the hammering winds were expected to continue throughout the day in the metropolitan area, and much of the northeast. Storm warnings were issued from Block Island to Cape Hatteras.

The cyclonic conditions were attributed to a low-pressure storm system that hit the southern plains yesterday, and has been deepening as it moved northeastward.

Temperatures were in the upper 40's, as the wind rampaged turning the warm rain into bullet-like pellets.

Afraid of Gunmen

New York, March 11 (AP)—Counsel for Harry Gross says the former bookmaker refused to testify against alleged associates in the police department because he "did not want to be on the receiving end" of gangland gunfire. Attorney Michael Kern made the statement before the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court yesterday in seeking reduction of Gross' 12-year prison sentence. The court reserved decision.

Truck Tax Going To Appeals Court For Legal Test

Schirick Decision Affirmed Unanimously by Five Appellate Judges on Monday

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Bearing a unanimous Appellate division endorsement of its constitutionality, the state's weight-milage tax on big trucks today headed for a test before the Court of Appeals.

The five-judge Appellate Division of State Supreme Court yesterday affirmed a decision by Justice Harry E. Schirick, Schirick had held on Jan. 24 that the tax law, enacted by the '51 Legislature, was constitutional.

The Appellate court said, in a memorandum, that questions of law involved should be reviewed by the state's highest tribunal.

The Appellate division continued until Friday an order restraining the state from collecting the tax from trucks who comply with other provisions of the law.

Friday is the closing day of the Court of Appeal's current term. It will convene again in April.

Raymond J. Gannon, clerk of the court, said "if an appeal is taken and counsel for both sides ask to be heard promptly, the case will be set down for argument Thursday."

Will Go to Highest Court

In New York, N. E. Kelby, attorney for a truckers' group organized to fight the tax, said the case "definitely" would be appealed — to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary.

If the Court of Appeals should, as appears likely, carry the case over to its next term, a new stay would have to be granted by a judge of the high court.

The tax ranges from 0.6 to 2.4 cents a mile on the loaded or unloaded weight of New York-registered and out-of-state trucks weighing more than 18,000 pounds.

The Empire State Truck Operators and Allied Industrial Committee, which claims to represent 250 trucking organizations, challenged the legality of the tax last Sept. 21. It was to have become effective Oct. 1.

35 Leave for Service

A total of 35 young men left this city this morning for induction into the armed forces under the Selective Service System. Local Draft Board No. 18, covering the city of Kingston, sent 10 of the men, the remaining 25 being sent by Local Board No. 19, covering Ulster county outside the city.

Temporary Order Given in Emergency to Protect Nation's Lifelines

Cleveland, March 11 (AP)—A federal judge today ordered three rail unions to end their strike and to keep the walkout from spreading to other lines.

Judge Emerich B. Freed granted a government suit to end immediately the strike started Sunday morning against the New York Central Lines west of Buffalo and the St. Louis Terminal Line.

He scheduled a hearing for March 19 on the government's request for a permanent injunction. The hearing will start two days before the 10-day temporary injunction granted today expires.

Unless the engineers, firemen and conductors end their strike, they are liable to fines and imprisonment for contempt of court.

Calls Roads Lifeline

"The railroads are part of our lifeline," Judge Freed declared in overriding union attorneys' objections to the restraining order. "The emergency is so great, and the crisis so apparent, that this court must issue a temporary restraining order.

Justice Department attorneys filed the action for the army, which has controlled the railroads since Aug. 27, 1950. Their petition also asked the court to keep the engineers, firemen and conductors from spreading the walkout to other railroads.

Since the surprise strike started Sunday morning, only the New York Central Lines West of Buffalo and the St. Louis terminal have been targets of the three rail operating brotherhoods. About 6,-000 men are on strike, and an additional 25,000 New York Central employes have been laid off.

Would Punish Leaders

Failure to end the strike or its extension would put heads of the three unions in contempt of court and make them liable to fines and imprisonment.

A year ago when the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen extended their "sick" walkouts in defiance of a federal court order, that union was fined a total of $100,000 in U. S. District Courts at Chicago and Washington.

The injunction request came after heads of the three unions meeting here took no action on an army demand they end the walkout or face "appropriate action." The army said the defense effort could not permit an interruption in transportation.

The strike has slowed down freight shipments, caused some industrial layoffs and forced about 20,000 daily NYC passengers to find other rides. Industrial lay-offs

Saulpaugh Signs Waiver, Testifies In Hudson Probe

Sheriff in Grand Jury Room 50 Minutes to Tell About Official Office Duties

Hudson, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Sheriff Milton V. Saulpaugh signed a limited waiver of immunity and testified today before the special grand jury investigating gambling, other vice and possible political corruption in Columbia county.

Saulpaugh was in the grand jury room 50 minutes. When he emerged he said he had no comment.

Saulpaugh, who quit as chairman of the Republican County Committee shortly after his appearance before the State Crime Commission at a public hearing here last December, was the first witness before the grand jury.

Thomas Mason, chief assistant to Special Prosecutor Paul W. Williams, said that Saulpaugh had signed a "limited waiver of immunity."

Thus he was required to answer only questions related to his official duties as sheriff.

Protected by Waiver

If he had refused to sign the waiver he would have been subject to removal from office.

A general waiver, which is not required, would have been a waiving of Saulpaugh's constitutional right not to answer—on grounds he might incriminate himself—questions on other matters besides his conduct as sheriff.

The 23-member jury was completed Feb. 26 and had been in recess since the following day.

At the crime commission hearing in December, Saulpaugh refused to answer several questions pertaining to contributions to the Republican party—on the ground any answers he might give might tend to incriminate him.

Tells About 'Lay Off'

Another witness before the commission, Sam Raco, described as a one-time gambler, testified that Saulpaugh had attended a meeting in the county court house at which, Raco said, "they" told Police Chief Vincent Howe, now dead, to lay off a big crap game in Hudson.

Raco said that County Attorney Thomas P. Kennedy and former Mayor Earl J. Colwell, both Re-

J. B. Campbell and Wife Bring Suit Against Alessio Bovino

An action for $80,000 growing out of an accident at Wappingers Falls, Feb. 9, 1951, was taken up in Supreme Court Monday afternoon before Justice Taylor and a jury.

John Boyd Campbell and his wife, Ruth, seek to recover money damages from Allessio A. Bovino of Wappingers Falls for injuries which they suffered in a collision between their car and that of Bovino near an intersection in Wappingers Falls.

Mrs. Campbell alleges she sustained a severe cut on the head and face which has left a permanent scar, a bad break of her left arm which has not yet healed and will require additional surgery, injuries to the legs, knees and hands. She claims she suffered concussion when her car was driven against a pole on a slippery pavement and has been unable to work since the accident. She was employed at $46 a week prior to the accident. She seeks $50,000. Her husband who was also injured asks a total of $30,000 for his injuries, hospital bills and loss of services.

Nardone Appears

Michael Nardone appears for plaintiff and E. Rosen of Rosen and Rosen of Poughkeepsie appear for defendant with Judge Andrew J. Cook as trial counsel.

Campbell claims he was driving his wife's car enroute to work, accompanied by his wife, when at East Main and Moran avenue in Wappingers Falls the Bovino car made a left turn and struck the Campbell car driving it against poles.

Campbell alleges that at the time the Bovino car collided the driver was unable to see because of an icy windshield and steamed up windows and that Bovino had not yet reached the intersection

Takes Over

A revolutionary movement led by Former President Fulgencio Batista (above) broke out in Cuba early March 10. Batista was Cuba's strong man from 1933 to 1944, and was a declared candidate in the presidential elections scheduled for next June. He had the support of the Army in the revolt.

Phone Raises Announced For Kingston

New state-wide telephone rates which go into effect on Friday will mean an increase of 25 cents a month for residence service and 75 cents monthly for business and semi-public telephones in Kingston, according to C. E. Burnett, manager here for the New York Telephone Company.

Extension telephones will cost five cents more for residence and 10 cents more for business subscribers.

For message rate customers, Burnett explained the new schedule calls for five cents additional for the first local calls or message units, 4½ cents for the next 500 and four cents thereafter.

Tolls Unchanged

"Toll rates between New York state points remain generally unchanged," Burnett said. "However, some calls of 14-25 miles are increased five cents for the initial period."

The Associated Press reported from New York that telephone users will have to pay 15 per cent Federal taxes on the increases. Therefore, as an example, the 75-cent business phone will amount to about 88 cents.

The rate boost was authorized on Monday by the state Public Service Commission. Additional revenue of $20,700,000 will be realized by the company from the new rates. A total annual boost of $25,400,000 had been sought by the firm.

Won't Meet Costs

In a statement issued Monday night, Keith S. McHugh, president of the New York Telephone Company, said the added revenue will help, but it is not enough to offset the effect of inflation on costs in the last two years. "This naturally remains a cause for concern," he said.

"As long as these costs and the costs of new construction continue at their present levels, or go higher under the impact of inflation, the company will face the prospect of its earnings continuing to wear away," McHugh said.

He contended that the new rates will add "less than a penny a day" to the average residence bill, and that in the last 22 years the telephone company's price increase has totalled only 15 per cent. He said telephone service is still in the "bargain counter" class compared with increases in consumer prices generally which have gone up "91 per cent since 1939."

Refuses Rent Injunction

New York, March 11 (AP)—A federal judge has refused a temporary injunction to keep the Public Housing Administration from boosting rents in Shanks Village, Orangeburg, N. Y., by 15 per cent. Some 200 residents of the government-operated veterans' emergency housing project—a former army camp—had sought the injunction. They said the rent increase was unlawful and beyond their financial means. Judge John F. X. McGohey disagreed yesterday. Besides refusing the injunction, he vacated a temporary restraining order against the defendants. The village management announced last January that the increase would be effective March 1. Some 1,400 persons live at Shanks. Counsel for the residents said rents ranged between $29 and $38.

Fleeing President Is at Embassy; Leaves Palace as Ex-Ruler Returns to Power

After Gamblers

Orders Guns Turned In, Promises to Continue Public Works

Havana, Cuba, March 11 (AP)—Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's resurgent strongman, today formally proclaimed himself in charge of "all powers and functions" of both the executive and legislative branches of the government.

The former president and behind-the-scenes dictator who rose to power again yesterday in a swift, almost bloodless revolution announced a series of "statutes of government," including a 45-day suspension of the right to strike.

President Carlos Prio Socarras, who fled the presidential palace after Batista and his Junta of 15 or 20 army captains and lieutenants had siezed control of all major military and police establishments here, slipped into the Mexican embassy early today and asked for asylum.

Assumes All Power

Batista's proclamation said the revolutionary Junta—that apparently what his government will be called—had resolved that he assume the "leadership of the state" and therefore "I take charge of organizing and directing the executive and legislative powers."

He pledged to sweep Cuba clean of "thieving and gangsterism in government."

In addition to suspending congress and constitutional guarantees for 45 days, he authorized all persons having guns illegally to turn them into police within five days without giving their names or facing prosecution.

To Continue Program

He ordered continued the 100 million dollar public works program and said he would guarantee payments to contractors. This work includes a three million dollar tunnel being dug under Almendares river between Havana and the Miramar residential suburb.

Meanwhile, Cuba was bouncing back to normal. Airplane traffic resumed, banks and other businesses reopened, bus service began, schools reopened, threats of a general strike proposed by adherants of Prio subsided.

Prio went to bed immediately upon reaching the Mexican embassy, saying he was exhausted.

Takes Over Estate

Batista's army took control of his many million dollar country estate outside Havana and mounted a guard over his personal effects at the presidential palace.

The estate is one of many that Prio owns and his opposition has accused him of grafting, just as he and others charged his predecessor, Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau and others in his govern-

Red Supplies Burn

Seoul, Korea, March 11 (AP)—American jet pilots turned a huge camouflaged Red supply base into blazing ruins today in the most intense attack of the Korean war with flaming jellied gasoline. Flames spread over a four square mile area of the supply depot. "It looked like hell itself," said some of the pilots, who flew a total of 250 sorties in waves. Will Open Store Uptown March 20

AL HEISMAN

Al Heisman, former manager of Stein Clothes in this city, has set Thursday, March 20, as the grand opening day for his own clothing store at 773 Broadway.

Heisman, who was connected with Stein Clothes locally for 22 years, will own and operate his own store in the former Governor Clinton Market location, featuring both men's and women's clothing. He advertises the clothes as factory priced and will carry a large selection of Wear-Test clothes for men made especially for him, as well as nationally advertised women's wear.

A free parking lot on St. James street behind the store will be available for Heisman's customers.

The store has been completely redecorated since the Governor Clinton Market moved from there into its new supermarket building which is adjoining.

Heisman will handle men's suits, top coats and slacks, and women's suits, toppers, skirts and slacks. Free alterations will be offered on men's clothes.

He explained that selling will be on a volume basis, permitting factory prices. This, he said, should be another inducement for Kingston residents to shop locally.

On each of the three grand opening days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, three pairs of men's slacks and three pair of women's slacks will be given away, Heisman announced. Refreshments will be served during those days.

Ike Holds Slight Lead Over Taft In First Primary

Concord, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—General Eisenhower held a slight lead over Senator Robert A. Taft in the first-in-the-nation Republican presidential preference primary today in the first two tiny towns to report.

The towns—Waterville Valley and Missfield—gave Eisenhower seven votes and Taft four. The combined population of the two places is only 26.

General Eisenhower got all his votes in Waterville Valley and Taft got his in Millsfield.

Two Democratic votes were cast in Millsfield. President Truman got one and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee—his only opponent—got the other.

Harold E. Stassen, a third Republican candidate, got one vote in Millsfield.

There was no way to gauge the big city vote because the polls don't open in Manchester until noon and in Concord until 3 p. m.

I the smaller city of Claremont, however, there was a heavy vote of 500 in the first two hours, despite a steady rain. Observers said this was twice as many voters as in an ordinary primary.

"It looks like a record vote," one Claremonter said.

In Waterville Valley Senator Taft got two write-in votes for vice president and Stassen got one.

The vote for delegates to the national conventions followed the pattern of the balloting on the presidential preference side.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Younger Pupils Show Progress

Woodstock, March 11—With the Woodstock School kindergarten past the half-year mark, under the guidance of Mrs. Sylvia Hutchins, a noticeable welding of the group attitude has taken place. At the beginning of the school year, some of the children, exposed to school life for the first time, were shy, uncommunicative and in some instances dependent upon their elders for the settling of their small problems and disputes.

The most marked change, according to Mrs. Hutchins, is the adult manner in which the children as a group now collect in a circle at the beginning of each session to discuss the day's activities. For a period of about 20 minutes they sit quietly in their little chairs planning, for instance, as they did the other morning to build in blocks the village of Woodstock.

Use Blocks

On the subject of block play Mrs. Hutchins is so enthusiastic that it naturally inspires the children to do remarkable things with them. The blocks, which are made with mathematical precision are based on a two and one-half inch square, doubled in rectangles and split into triangles. There are a number of odd shapes, such as arches which may be used either for a church facade or a railroad switch. Even adults visiting the kindergarten, seeing the block in use have expressed a desire to go to work with them.

"The whole world the children know can be worked out in these unit blocks—the home, the school, the church, the bridge and the official town buildings," Mrs. Hutchins maintains. "Blocks are like stones and brick and they can see them in relation to the buildings around them, but most important they serve to help the group work out its inter-personal relationships."

Contained in rectangles, cubes, half circles, cylinders, and other shapes, are all the elements of science, social studies, geography and engineering at the kindergarten level.

Build Village

This week the kindergarten class decided to recreate the town of Woodstock. At the group discussion, each child was asked to indicate his preference as to the part of the village he wished to build. One chose the fire house, one the town hall, one the post office and another the stores. The children whose preferences duplicated the first requests were assigned to the respective groups.

Late in the afternoon they set eagerly to work, in order that the "town" might not be disturbed over night and be left in readiness for the next day's continuation of the project. Busy as flies in a bottle they worked and the buildings took shape. So intent were they individually that it was not until an elaborate structure, purporting to be the Woodstock Town Hall, which rose with majestic towers, appeared at opposite ends of the town from the fire house. Too late in the day to remedy this error in town planning, the young builders gave in reluctantly, put on their coats, hats and boots and hopped aboard the waiting school bus. Tomorrow's conference of city planners will decide the fate of either the town hall or the fire house—one or the other is up against a big moving proposition. At the original planning council, one civic-minded child suggested a town jail, but when it was pointed out that Woodstock contained no jail he was forced to abandon the idea.

Share Work

"This," said Mrs. Hutchins, "is the sort of constructive play they love. Without my help they settle their own arguments. They share their work completely and it offers all kinds of dramatic experiences for them."

When the project has been completed, they will have expressed their own ideas, and will have tried several before they find the one that works. They will have demonstrated for themselves how life here in the village is lived; they will study the roads approaching the town; they'll introduce the policeman on the corner; they will illustrate the postman delivering the mail, and perhaps the fireman putting out the fire. And some of the little girls will have created a variety of homes and families. It will be strong confirmation of the theory of modern educators that block play offers the broadest opportunity for the child's expressiveness at his own level.

In her enthusiasm for block play, Mrs. Hutchins has by no means neglected the other important aspects of a well-rounded, modern kindergarten. The walls of the schoolroom are enhanced by the colorful paintings of the young students. A shelf contains the recent creations in clay, made solid and formed so that there will be no breakage from too weakly constructed appendages. Clay, she believes, is the first step in developing an idea and following it through to completion. They are encouraged to go beyond modeling and to paint and finally shellac the article to give the appearance that the piece has been fired.

In Doll Corner

In the "doll corner" they engage in real housekeeping play. With the careful guidance and help of the teacher, boys as well as girls are active and highly efficient as housekeepers. After all, they realize, dad does participate as much sometimes as mother in the life of the home and the boys do a good job of it.

Water play is another important adjunct to the program planned for the kindergarten child. He learns that within certain prescribed limits he may splash and puddle to his heart's content. Water play, however, must be kept within bounds and carefully watched to insure that he doesn't drench himself or the surrounding area. "Psychologists still don't know the reason for it," said Mrs. Hutchins, "but water play is ideal for both the emotionally disturbed child and a thoroughly healthy outlet for the well-adjusted child in releasing tensions."

With the present kindergarten program now running smoothly, Mrs. Hutchins hopes to plan field trips for the children during the spring months. Each trip, however, must be undertaken with the written consent of the parents of each child, and the school staff is now working on a program by which this may be quickly achieved. They would like to have the children taken to see interesting events and places in the nearby areas.

Candeliers Plan For City Exhibit

Woodstock, March 11 — Although the Woodstock Candeliers have been keeping pace with a lively demand through the winter season for their unique and decorative candles, the unusual activity for the past week in and about their plant on Mill Hill Road has been occasioned by their preparations for the International Flower Show.

Patty and Danny Perlmutter, who are the Candeliers, have designed, made and set-up in the large work area behind their showroom, the striking chartreuse and leaf green booth which they will take to New York Tuesday. It will be installed at Grand Central Palace in readiness for the opening of the Flower Show March 16. They were pleased to learn also that they have been assigned space on the second floor next to that to be occupied by the New York Times display.

It was their unique flower-holder candle, one of their most popular and original items which won them admission as an exhibitor last year at the Flower Show This year they will show the same candle, but with the new two-toned effects, in the new colors of shadow-light and Le Rouge. Two-toned candles are unique in the trade owing to the lengthy and difficult manipulation each candle requires in the color bath.

New Design

The new design, to be featured this year, is the double-wicked Driftwood, one of Patty's experimental creations which has already become a sensation in the decorating world. Dennison's in New York featured the candle in the Fifth avenue show window for an entire week. The design is so perfectly balanced that it seems almost destructive to touch a match to a charming piece of sculpture, but it has been so planned that it burns and drips to intriguing new shapes as it dwindles, and it comes in such imaginative shades as cypress, moss green and bark.

Two other items are saucily Mexican in inspiration—the Aqua Jig and the larger Aqua Jug, made in pottery brown and Mexican green, ideally informal for a long out-door barbecue table setting.

The ten by ten foot display booth, which is sharply angular in design will serve as a background not only for the newer designs, but for their well-established items, the softly rounded Pine Cone, the 10 and five inch rope candle and the long-time favorite the Antique Bottle.

Following the Flower Show, the Candeliers will also display their candles at a big furniture show in the near future, at which time two representatives from the organization will attend to demonstrate decorative ways of using the candles.

Village Notes

Woodstock, March 11—R. J. Alpern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alpern, of this village, left last Friday for Nurenburg, Germany. He will serve as assistant administrator there for the U. S. government. His parents went to New York to bid him farewell.

Mrs. Flora Pitt-Conrey will accupy the studio on the property of Mrs. Bertha Drucklieb on Plochmann Lane, for a year. Mrs. Pitt-Conrey is a well-known photographer.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 11 (AP)—Modest strength in the railroad section kept the stock market on a steady basis today.

The railroad division started out unchanged almost all around, and it gradually improved as trading progressed and the government took positive steps to end the strike on the New York Central railroad.

The NYC strike presented a psychological block to buying with traders and investors adopting a cautious attitude about the market until the outcome of the work stoppage became clearer.

Improvement in the railroads brought buying sentiment into the oils. There were scattered plus signs in motors, steels, radio-television and motion pictures. None of these sections was buoyant enough, however, to take a definite position on the upside.

There was more than average backwardness in non-ferrous metals, golds, and chemicals.

Prices spread out over a one point range in either direction with a few exceptions.

Ex-Insurance Head Dies

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Frank A. Martinez, retired manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company office here, died yesterday in a hospital after a brief illness. Martinez retired in 1947 after 48 years with the company. He formerly was assistant manager in Yonkers. He was a native of New York city.

Judge Orders . . .

would mount rapidly if the strike is prolonged.

Close on Raises

Chiefs of the striking brotherhoods said approximately 200,000 members, despairing of what they call lengthy, fruitless negotiations, want better working conditions and a pay raise. On raises, however, the two sides are fairly close.

More important is their fight against attempts to change four working rules, which they said would amount to substantial wage cuts.

In spite of differences with the roads and the government, the leaders of the striking brotherhoods announced at their headquarters here last night that they still are ready to negotiate.

The statement was signed by the three chiefs: R. O. Hughes of the Order of Railway conductors; D. B. Robertson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; and J. P. Shields, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Saulpaugh Signs

publicans, also were present. Raco did not give the date of the alleged meeting. Kennedy told reporters no such meeting had been held.

The grand jury probe was ordered by Governor Dewey following the Crime Commission's hearing, at which there was considerable testimony of alleged tieups between gamblers and office-holders, both Republicans and Democrats.

The Columbia county panel reconvenes just one day before the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court is expected to rule on the legality of a special grand jury probing gambling in Saratoga county.

The Appellate Court reserved decision after hearing arguments March 5 on an appeal from a ruling by Justice Harry E. Schirick that the Saratoga jury was impanelled illegally.

Paul W. Williams, the special prosecutor in both the Saratoga and Columbia county inquiries, was not connected with the Saratoga investigation when the jury was seated. John M. Minton, the prosecutor at that time, resigned last month and was succeeded by Williams.

Suit for $80,000

when he attempted to make the turn, due to the condition of the windows of his car.

In his opening to the jury Nardone said it would be shown that the defendant admitted to a police officer at the time that he had not seen the Campbell car until after the accident and that he was blinded by the sun.

Says Road Icy

Defendant alleges that the pavement was slippery and the Campbell car was traveling at a fast rate of speed on a grade and was unable to stop. He defends the action on the grounds he had looked a distance of 200 feet or more and saw no car approaching when he started to turn left but that the Campbell car came over the hill at a fast speed and was not able to stop.

Campbell contends the Bovino car had stood out all night and the windshield and windows were so frosted over the operator could not see the approaching car. Campbell also seeks damages for loss of wages, he having been employed at $73 a week prior to the accident.

Batista Promises

ment have been accused of a 174 million dollar treasury fraud.

With Prio in the embassy were three of his former ministers, Segundo Curto Curti, interior; Aureliano Sanchez Arango, state; Ruben De Leon, defense.

Three ousted generals, who landed in Miami, Fla., last night obviously had been provided with a military plane by Batista.

Mrs. Tellier Given 2 to 5 Years in Jail

Mrs. Laurline Tellier, 34, of Poughkeepsie was sentenced in Dutchess County Court today to a two to five year term in West State Prison for Women, Bedford, on a first degree grand larceny charge which arose from her alleged theft of $1,091.31 from the Roberts-Boice Paper Co., Inc., of Poughkeepsie.

The former bookkeeper for the company, Mrs. Tellier was also given a one to two year sentence on a third degree forgery count, the sentences to run concurrently. In addition, she was placed on probation for five years and was directed to make restitution.

Two of six counts in the indictment charged first degree grand larceny, and four charged third degree forgery. Sentences on one of the larceny counts and three of the forgery counts were suspended.

Senate Approves Bill On Older Newsboys

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—A bill that would require newspaper boys to be at least 14 years of age—instead of 12—to sell on the streets was sent to the Assembly today with Senate approval.

The present minimum legal age of 12 for home-delivery carriers would not be affected, under terms of the bill that was approved by the smaller House last night.

The measure would exclude home-delivery carriers from the legal definition of "street trade" and would provide for annual physical examinations of such carriers before they were given permits.

Boys engaged in street trades now must have permits.

The bill, which was sponsored by the State Circulation Managers Association, also provides that carrier boys be considered independent contractors and not the employe of the corporation or person from whom he buys papers.

As an independent, the carrier would not be eligible for social security, workmen's compensation or similar social benefits covering regular newspaper employes.

Reds Kill Own Pilot

San Francisco, March 11 (AP)—Red pilots of the Russian-built MIG 15 jets flying over Korea kill a downed mate rather than allow him to fall into allied hands, an aviation executive said yesterday on his return from a month's tour of air force bases in Japan and Korea. W. Howard Ehmann, director of field service for Republic Aviation Corporation, makers of the Thunderjet (F84), said soon after he arrived in Korea air force officers told him of this instance: A MIG was damaged and had to make a forced landing. Allied fighters circled the area and called for a helicopter to come and bring out the MIG pilot. Before the helicopter could arrive, MIGs tore through the allied fighters and machinegunned the grounded flier.

Red Supplies Burn

Seoul, Korea, March 11 (AP)—American jet pilots turned a huge camouflaged Red supply base into blazing ruins today in the most intense attack of the Korean war with flaming jellied gasoline. Flames spread over a four square mile area of the supply depot. "It looked like hell itself," said some of the pilots, who flew a total of 250 sorties in waves. Swarms of Red jets streak down from Manchuria to try to protect the base near Sinmak, 30 miles northwest of the truce village, Panmunjom. U. S. Sabre jet pilots shot down three MIGs in air battles, probably destroyed another and damaged five.

Pinay Approved

Paris, March 11 (AP)—Premier Antoine Pinay won a vote of approval, 293 to 101, from the National Assembly today for his new right-of-center cabinet.

Will Open Store Uptown March 20

AL HEISMAN

Al Heisman, former manager of Stein Clothes in this city, has set Thursday, March 20, as the grand opening day for his own clothing store at 773 Broadway.

Heisman, who was connected with Stein Clothes locally for 22 years, will own and operate his own store in the former Governor Clinton Market location, featuring both men's and women's clothing. He advertises the clothes as factory priced and will carry a large selection of Wear-Test clothes for men made especially for him, as well as nationally advertised women's wear.

A free parking lot on St. James street behind the store will be available for Heisman's customers.

The store has been completely redecorated since the Governor Clinton Market moved from there into its new supermarket building which is adjoining.

Heisman will handle men's suits, top coats and slacks, and women's suits, toppers, skirts and slacks. Free alterations will be offered on men's clothes.

He explained that selling will be on a volume basis, permitting factory prices. This, he said, should be another inducement for Kingston residents to shop locally.

On each of the three grand opening days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, three pairs of men's slacks and three pair of women's slacks will be given away, Heisman announced. Refreshments will be served during those days.

Ike Holds Slight Lead Over Taft In First Primary

Concord, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—General Eisenhower held a slight lead over Senator Robert A. Taft in the first-in-the-nation Republican presidential preference primary today in the first two tiny towns to report.

The towns—Waterville Valley and Missfield—gave Eisenhower seven votes and Taft four. The combined population of the two places is only 26.

General Eisenhower got all his votes in Waterville Valley and Taft got his in Millsfield.

Two Democratic votes were cast in Millsfield. President Truman got one and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee—his only opponent—got the other.

Harold E. Stassen, a third Republican candidate, got one vote in Millsfield.

There was no way to gauge the big city vote because the polls don't open in Manchester until noon and in Concord until 3 p. m.

I the smaller city of Claremont, however, there was a heavy vote of 500 in the first two hours, despite a steady rain. Observers said this was twice as many voters as in an ordinary primary.

"It looks like a record vote," one Claremonter said.

In Waterville Valley Senator Taft got two write-in votes for vice president and Stassen got one.

The vote for delegates to the national conventions followed the pattern of the balloting on the presidential preference side.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Younger Pupils Show Progress

Woodstock, March 11—With the Woodstock School kindergarten past the half-year mark, under the guidance of Mrs. Sylvia Hutchins, a noticeable welding of the group attitude has taken place. At the beginning of the school year, some of the children, exposed to school life for the first time, were shy, uncommunicative and in some instances dependent upon their elders for the settling of their small problems and disputes.

The most marked change, according to Mrs. Hutchins, is the adult manner in which the children as a group now collect in a circle at the beginning of each session to discuss the day's activities. For a period of about 20 minutes they sit quietly in their little chairs planning, for instance, as they did the other morning to build in blocks the village of Woodstock.

Use Blocks

On the subject of block play Mrs. Hutchins is so enthusiastic that it naturally inspires the children to do remarkable things with them. The blocks, which are made with mathematical precision are based on a two and one-half inch square, doubled in rectangles and split into triangles. There are a number of odd shapes, such as arches which may be used either for a church facade or a railroad switch. Even adults visiting the kindergarten, seeing the block in use have expressed a desire to go to work with them.

"The whole world the children know can be worked out in these unit blocks—the home, the school, the church, the bridge and the official town buildings," Mrs. Hutchins maintains. "Blocks are like stones and brick and they can see them in relation to the buildings around them, but most important they serve to help the group work out its inter-personal relationships."

Contained in rectangles, cubes, half circles, cylinders, and other shapes, are all the elements of science, social studies, geography and engineering at the kindergarten level.

Build Village

This week the kindergarten class decided to recreate the town of Woodstock. At the group discussion, each child was asked to indicate his preference as to the part of the village he wished to build. One chose the fire house, one the town hall, one the post office and another the stores. The children whose preferences duplicated the first requests were assigned to the respective groups.

Late in the afternoon they set eagerly to work, in order that the "town" might not be disturbed over night and be left in readiness for the next day's continuation of the project. Busy as flies in a bottle they worked and the buildings took shape. So intent were they individually that it was not until an elaborate structure, purporting to be the Woodstock Town Hall, which rose with majestic towers, appeared at opposite ends of the town from the fire house. Too late in the day to remedy this error in town planning, the young builders gave in reluctantly, put on their coats, hats and boots and hopped aboard the waiting school bus. Tomorrow's conference of city planners will decide the fate of either the town hall or the fire house—one or the other is up against a big moving proposition. At the original planning council, one civic-minded child suggested a town jail, but when it was pointed out that Woodstock contained no jail he was forced to abandon the idea.

Share Work

"This," said Mrs. Hutchins, "is the sort of constructive play they love. Without my help they settle their own arguments. They share their work completely and it offers all kinds of dramatic experiences for them."

When the project has been completed, they will have expressed their own ideas, and will have tried several before they find the one that works. They will have demonstrated for themselves how life here in the village is lived; they will study the roads approaching the town; they'll introduce the policeman on the corner; they will illustrate the postman delivering the mail, and perhaps the fireman putting out the fire. And some of the little girls will have created a variety of homes and families. It will be strong confirmation of the theory of modern educators that block play offers the broadest opportunity for the child's expressiveness at his own level.

In her enthusiasm for block play, Mrs. Hutchins has by no means neglected the other important aspects of a well-rounded, modern kindergarten. The walls of the schoolroom are enhanced by the colorful paintings of the young students. A shelf contains the recent creations in clay, made solid and formed so that there will be no breakage from too weakly constructed appendages. Clay, she believes, is the first step in developing an idea and following it through to completion. They are encouraged to go beyond modeling and to paint and finally shellac the article to give the appearance that the piece has been fired.

In Doll Corner

In the "doll corner" they engage in real housekeeping play. With the careful guidance and help of the teacher, boys as well as girls are active and highly efficient as housekeepers. After all, they realize, dad does participate as much sometimes as mother in the life of the home and the boys do a good job of it.

Water play is another important adjunct to the program planned for the kindergarten child. He learns that within certain prescribed limits he may splash and puddle to his heart's content. Water play, however, must be kept within bounds and carefully watched to insure that he doesn't drench himself or the surrounding area. "Psychologists still don't know the reason for it," said Mrs. Hutchins, "but water play is ideal for both the emotionally disturbed child and a thoroughly healthy outlet for the well-adjusted child in releasing tensions."

With the present kindergarten program now running smoothly, Mrs. Hutchins hopes to plan field trips for the children during the spring months. Each trip, however, must be undertaken with the written consent of the parents of each child, and the school staff is now working on a program by which this may be quickly achieved. They would like to have the children taken to see interesting events and places in the nearby areas.

Candeliers Plan For City Exhibit

Woodstock, March 11 — Although the Woodstock Candeliers have been keeping pace with a lively demand through the winter season for their unique and decorative candles, the unusual activity for the past week in and about their plant on Mill Hill Road has been occasioned by their preparations for the International Flower Show.

Patty and Danny Perlmutter, who are the Candeliers, have designed, made and set-up in the large work area behind their showroom, the striking chartreuse and leaf green booth which they will take to New York Tuesday. It will be installed at Grand Central Palace in readiness for the opening of the Flower Show March 16. They were pleased to learn also that they have been assigned space on the second floor next to that to be occupied by the New York Times display.

It was their unique flower-holder candle, one of their most popular and original items which won them admission as an exhibitor last year at the Flower Show This year they will show the same candle, but with the new two-toned effects, in the new colors of shadow-light and Le Rouge. Two-toned candles are unique in the trade owing to the lengthy and difficult manipulation each candle requires in the color bath.

New Design

The new design, to be featured this year, is the double-wicked Driftwood, one of Patty's experimental creations which has already become a sensation in the decorating world. Dennison's in New York featured the candle in the Fifth avenue show window for an entire week. The design is so perfectly balanced that it seems almost destructive to touch a match to a charming piece of sculpture, but it has been so planned that it burns and drips to intriguing new shapes as it dwindles, and it comes in such imaginative shades as cypress, moss green and bark.

Two other items are saucily Mexican in inspiration—the Aqua Jig and the larger Aqua Jug, made in pottery brown and Mexican green, ideally informal for a long out-door barbecue table setting.

The ten by ten foot display booth, which is sharply angular in design will serve as a background not only for the newer designs, but for their well-established items, the softly rounded Pine Cone, the 10 and five inch rope candle and the long-time favorite the Antique Bottle.

Following the Flower Show, the Candeliers will also display their candles at a big furniture show in the near future, at which time two representatives from the organization will attend to demonstrate decorative ways of using the candles.

Contestants may register with any member of the Business Association.

Mrs. Leo Herbert will be the accompanist for the evening. The winner will be sent to Kingston for the final tryout.

Woodstock, March 11 — The Woodstock American Legion Post 1026 will hold a stag party with a turkey dinner for Legionnaires and their friends Saturday, March 22. Dinner will be served at 7 p. m., at the Legion building, and movies will be shown following the dinner. Reservations for the occasion must be made not later than Tuesday, March 18, through William H. MacReady, adjutant.

Fund Boosted

Woodstock, March 11—Everand L. Short, secretary of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club reported to William Hand, chairman of the drive for the March of Dimes, that a total of $139.55 had been raised and contributed to the fund at the club's recent square dance. Total contributions to date to the March of Dimes have been $513.55.

Village Notes

Woodstock, March 11—R. J. Alpern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alpern, of this village, left last Friday for Nurenburg, Germany. He will serve as assistant administrator there for the U. S. government. His parents went to New York to bid him farewell.

Mrs. Flora Pitt-Conrey will occupy the studio on the property of Mrs. Bertha Drucklieb on Plochmann Lane, for a year. Mrs. Pitt-Conrey is a well-known photographer.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 11 (AP)—Modest strength in the railroad section kept the stock market on a steady basis today.

The railroad division started out unchanged almost all around, and it gradually improved as trading progressed and the government took positive steps to end the strike on the New York Central railroad.

The NYC strike presented a psychological block to buying with traders and investors adopting a cautious attitude about the market until the outcome of the work stoppage became clearer.

Improvement in the railroads brought buying sentiment into the oils. There were scattered plus signs in motors, steels, radio-television and motion pictures. None of these sections was buoyant enough, however, to take a definite position on the upside.

There was more than average backwardness in non-ferrous metals, golds, and chemicals.

Prices spread out over a one point range in either direction with a few exceptions.

Ex-Insurance Head Dies

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Frank A. Martinez, retired manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company office here, died yesterday in a hospital after a brief illness. Martinez retired in 1947 after 48 years with the company. He formerly was assistant manager in Yonkers. He was a native of New York city.

Judge Orders . . .

would mount rapidly if the strike is prolonged.

Close on Raises

Chiefs of the striking brotherhoods said approximately 200,000 members, despairing of what they call lengthy, fruitless negotiations, want better working conditions and a pay raise. On raises, however, the two sides are fairly close.

More important is their fight against attempts to change four working rules, which they said would amount to substantial wage cuts.

In spite of differences with the roads and the government, the leaders of the striking brotherhoods announced at their headquarters here last night that they still are ready to negotiate.

The statement was signed by the three chiefs: R. O. Hughes of the Order of Railway conductors; D. B. Robertson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; and J. P. Shields, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The grand jury probe was ordered by Governor Dewey following the Crime Commission's hearing, at which there was considerable testimony of alleged tieups between gamblers and office-holders, both Republicans and Democrats.

The Columbia county panel reconvenes just one day before the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court is expected to rule on the legality of a special grand jury probing gambling in Saratoga county.

The Appellate Court reserved decision after hearing arguments March 5 on an appeal from a ruling by Justice Harry E. Schirick that the Saratoga jury was impanelled illegally.

Paul W. Williams, the special prosecutor in both the Saratoga and Columbia county inquiries, was not connected with the Saratoga investigation when the jury was seated. John M. Minton, the prosecutor at that time, resigned last month and was succeeded by Williams.

Suit for $80,000

when he attempted to make the turn, due to the condition of the windows of his car.

In his opening to the jury Nardone said it would be shown that the defendant admitted to a police officer at the time that he had not seen the Campbell car until after the accident and that he was blinded by the sun.

Says Road Icy

Defendant alleges that the pavement was slippery and the Campbell car was traveling at a fast rate of speed on a grade and was unable to stop. He defends the action on the grounds he had looked a distance of 200 feet or more and saw no car approaching when he started to turn left but that the Campbell car came over the hill at a fast speed and was not able to stop.

Campbell contends the Bovino car had stood out all night and the windshield and windows were so frosted over the operator could not see the approaching car. Campbell also seeks damages for loss of wages, he having been employed at $73 a week prior to the accident.

Mrs. Tellier Given 2 to 5 Years in Jail

Mrs. Laurline Tellier, 34, of Poughkeepsie was sentenced in Dutchess County Court today to a two to five year term in West State Prison for Women, Bedford, on a first degree grand larceny charge which arose from her alleged theft of $1,091.31 from the Roberts-Boice Paper Co., Inc., of Poughkeepsie.

The former bookkeeper for the company, Mrs. Tellier was also given a one to two year sentence on a third degree forgery count, the sentences to run concurrently. In addition, she was placed on probation for five years and was directed to make restitution.

Two of six counts in the indictment charged first degree grand larceny, and four charged third degree forgery. Sentences on one of the larceny counts and three of the forgery counts were suspended.

Senate Approves Bill On Older Newsboys

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—A bill that would require newspaper boys to be at least 14 years of age—instead of 12—to sell on the streets was sent to the Assembly today with Senate approval.

The present minimum legal age of 12 for home-delivery carriers would not be affected, under terms of the bill that was approved by the smaller House last night.

The measure would exclude home-delivery carriers from the legal definition of "street trade" and would provide for annual physical examinations of such carriers before they were given permits.

Boys engaged in street trades now must have permits.

The bill, which was sponsored by the State Circulation Managers Association, also provides that carrier boys be considered independent contractors and not the employe of the corporation or person from whom he buys papers.

As an independent, the carrier would not be eligible for social security, workmen's compensation or similar social benefits covering regular newspaper employes.

Reds Kill Own Pilot

San Francisco, March 11 (AP)—Red pilots of the Russian-built MIG 15 jets flying over Korea kill a downed mate rather than allow him to fall into allied hands, an aviation executive said yesterday on his return from a month's tour of air force bases in Japan and Korea. W. Howard Ehmann, director of field service for Republic Aviation Corporation, makers of the Thunderjet (F84), said soon after he arrived in Korea air force officers told him of this instance: A MIG was damaged and had to make a forced landing. Allied fighters circled the area and called for a helicopter to come and bring out the MIG pilot. Before the helicopter could arrive, MIGs tore through the allied fighters and machinegunned the grounded flier.

FRANCE IS IN BAD WAY

Recent events point up all too clearly that France is in a bad way, both financially and politically.

This is a matter of deep concern both to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which France is an important part, and to the United States, which is shelling out millions for France's rearmament.

The problems of France are many and complex. For one thing, dislocations of international trade have cut heavily into her exports. This can be economically disastrous.

Another thing is the costly war she is waging in Indo-China. If she could pull out of Indo-China her budget problems would be just about licked.

Involved in all France's money troubles is the very real problem of the tottering franc. Forty years ago it was worth 20 cents. At the beginning of World War II it had fallen to three cents. Falling steadily after World War II, it finally was pegged at one-third of a cent. And it looks as if even that won't hold.

Naturally, such devalued money puts a terrific hardship on the French people. The cost of living has zoomed 50 per cent in the last year and a half.

Against this spotty financial scene, Premier Faure went home to Paris from the NATO conference in Lisbon recently to tell the French what they were going to have to pay out for rearmament.

He informed the National Assembly that taxes would have to be raised 15 per cent to raise $4 billion for rearmament. The Assembly turned him down and the Faure government fell, only 40 days after it had come into power.

This illustrates a phase of France's political weakness which must be remedied if she is to have the stability to pull herself out of an extremely difficult situation.

How is France to correct this weakness? Many believe a change in the constitution will be required to bring about permanent benefit.

Short of that, the only answer appears to be the emergence of a single party with strength enough to endure for a sufficient length of time to carry out remedial financial policies.

Middle of the road governments have failed to do this since World War II, which leaves France in the unhappy position of perhaps having to choose between an extreme of right or left.

UNCLE TOM'S ANNIVERSARY

The best-known book of American literature was published on March 20th just a century ago. This was "Uncle Tom's Cabin," read by millions and long familiar through the stage versions put on by wandering troupes. The readers wept over the sufferings of Uncle Tom and the death of Eva, and laughed at the grotesque little Topsy. In the process they absorbed a hatred of slavery which did much to spread the gospel of abolition. Well might Lincoln say, when greeting the author, Harriet Beecher Stowe, in the White House, "This is the little woman who made this great war."

That the book was not a strictly accurate picture of slavery has often been emphasized. Yet Mrs. Stowe did not represent all slaveholders as cruel. The Shelby household in Kentucky, where the story opens, treated its slaves as members of the family. When Uncle Tom became the property of the Southern planter, St. Clair, he was treated humanely as long as his master lived. And it should not be forgotten that the villain of the book, Simon Legree, was no Southerner but a Yankee from New England. Mrs. Stowe was crusading against slavery, not against a particular section.

Read today, the novel seems to have much false sentiment and exaggeration. Yet exaggeration may have been necessary to carry the message. When a message is to be given to a large audience, it is often necessary to shout.

Mrs. Stowe's other books are little remembered, though one at least deserves to be recalled, "Oldtown Folks," stories of the Maine coast. She does not need fame from them. To write "Uncle Tom's Cabin" ensured her immortality.

Public opinion in favor of fun with sobriety would save a lot of alcoholic automobile accidents.

'These Days'

ANOTHER BRITISH ERROR

In 1931, when the Japanese invaded Manchuria, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson proposed to intervene with the object of preserving the territorial and administrative integrity of China as was guaranteed by the Nine Powers Treaty (1922). Sir John Simon, then minister of foreign affairs for Great Britain, turned Stimson down. President Hoover made private inquiries in Great Britain and discovered that there was no intention in that country to limit Japan's expansion, although that event led directly to the death of the League of Nations and World War II.

When General Douglas MacArthur was in Japan, he encountered stiff British opposition, particularly on economic measures looking forward to the rehabilitation of Japan. A constant campaign of ridicule was conducted against General MacArthur in the British press and by means of all the agencies of British propaganda; Great Britain's premature recognition of Soviet China has been an embarrassment to the United States and the United Nations and has forced upon our administration what might be termed the Marshall Policy in the Far East which has been costly in American lives in the Korean War.

Those two errors have brought to Great Britain no benefits; the first lost her an empire; the second may lose for her American support and friendship as well as China trade.

Now the British are engaged in making a third error, namely, a constant vilification of John Foster Dulles, who did manage to get a Japanese Peace Treaty and the Pacific Security Pacts written and accepted. Even those who find flaws in the Japanese Treaty admit that, considering the many conflicting views, the intransigence of Soviet Russia and the confusions of both American and British policy, Dulles, personally, did better than could have been expected.

British policy is based on the single objective of keeping America focussed on Europe and the preservation of the remaining remnants of the British Empire. Therefore, any diversion of attention is resented and found to be offensive. John Foster Dulles has emphasized the Pacific and its importance in American life and history; therefore, Dulles is to be ridiculed.

There is a sort of newsletter called "Foreign Report," published by "The Economist" in London. This paper speaks of " . . an important ginger group inside the Truman Administration has now begun pressing for a tougher American policy against Communist China."

Apparently that is a crime after we have had more than 106,000 casualties in Korea and have wasted eight months in futile conversation with the Communists while they have improved their military position. Calling John Foster Dulles the leader of this group, the aforesaid London newsletter, which is recognized as having close relations with the British Foreign Office, describes Dulles as ". . . Consutant to the secretary of state in the present administration, and who is—or thinks he is—a candidate for the job of secretary of state if the Republicans win the election. . . ."

That is an extremely nasty dig, implying that Dulles sacrifices American wefare to personal ambition which really has nothing to do with the problem we face. No one can now say who will be secretary of state, should a Republican be elected President, but whosoever it might be, Dulles will be consulted on Far Eastern questions as will General MacArthur. And it is probable that he will be considered for the secretary of state.

It would be smart if British publications and British propaganda showed us the courtesy of permitting us to choose our own leadership and our own counsel. In previous campaigns, particularly in the Roosevelt campaigns, there was too much British activity against Americans in opposition to the administration. This conduct will not be tolerated in the 1952 campaign and will be exposed if attempted.

The very term, isolationist, wholly incomprehensible in American history, was of British origin, designed to smear Herbert Hoover, Charles Lindbergh, William Randolph Hearst, Colonel Robert R. McCormick and other American leaders. What they said between 1938 and 1945 has been established in 1952 to have been correct in substance.

The smearing of John Foster Dulles is of a pattern which is deeply resented in this country. If we quarrel among ourselves, it is our quarrel, but when outsiders interfere, we shall unite in teling them to mind their own business. Americans intend to do their own choosing, without consultations.

CITIZENS' HELP IN MENTAL SERVICES

Years ago there was such a demand for hospital beds in mental institutions that it was estimated that within 50 years one half of all the people in the world would be needed to look after the other half, who would be in need of mental treatment. Fortunately, with the coming of shock treatment—insulin, metrazol and electric—many mental patients were cured in a short time and the majority able to return to their regular work.

The National Association for Mental Health tells us that today "there is a definite trend upward in the quantity and quality of care and treatment of many of the 750,000 patients in the nation's public mental hospitals as well as an increase in the outpatient psychiatric facilities."

Despite the encouraging note in the Association's annual report, mental illness continues to be our nation's number one health problem; today there are more people in the mental hospitals than there are in all other types of hospitals put together, and mental hospitals are badly understaffed. In some instances the gains made before World War 2 have been wiped out by the draining of hospital personnel into industry and defense activities.

The report states further that according to present-day trends, at least one out of every ten persons will need professional psychiatric care at some time during his life.

What is being done to combat this increase in the number needing mental and emotional care? This association sponsors and helps finance inspection and rating programs for public mental hospitals. These surveys, conducted by the American Psychiatric Association, are designed to promote the establishment of higher standards of these hospitals. During the year, 42 hospitals in 11 states, Canada and Hawaii have been inspected.

It is admitted that governments are granting large sums of money to further the work in mental hospitals. The National Association for Mental Health, Inc., is a national citizens' association and devotes itself entirely to bringing improvement and expansion of the mental services through consultation, education and research.

Taking the Patient for a Ride

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—For some time it has been a mystery as to why the navy, with carrier-based planes off the Korean coast, did not participate in the tough job of combating the Red's jet-propelled MIGs instead of leaving it to the air force. Navy pilots are among the best and most courageous in the world, but except in a few cases, they have been kept a safe distance from the MIGs.

This column is now able to give the answer. The navy has not been able to develop a jet plane able to stand up against Russian MIGs, and because of army-navy rivalry, has been unwilling to accept an air force type engine with which to do the job.

This is no reflection on the thousands of navy airmen who have been itching to get into the Korean jet fighting, but rather on the brass hats at the top who have been unwilling to accept the spirit of the unification act.

Investigation of this rivalry also reveals shocking waste, extravagance and inefficiency, which once again seems to result from lack of unification.

Today the navy's bureau of aeronautics is spending $50,046.57 each for a Pratt-Whitney jet engine, the J-48-P-6, for use in jet fighter planes, when it could buy a better Allison engine, the J-33-A-16 for only $31,000.

"Unacceptable" Engine

The Allison jet job weighs a little less than the Pratt-Whitney, is a low-pressure engine, and has been given an OK by the naval air test center at Patuxent, Md., whereas the Pratt-Whitney engine has not passed inspection. On or about Feb. 25, Patuxent reported to the navy's board of inspection and survey in Washington that the Pratt-Whitney J-48 was "unacceptable." Despite this, a total of 2,435 of the Pratt-Whitney engines already have been ordered, and will cost a current price of $50,046.57; while only 201 Allison engines were ordered at a current price of $31,000.

The extra cost to the taxpayer is $48,000,000.

Meanwhile, the J-48 built by Pratt-Whitney flies 150 miles per hour slower than the Russian MIGs. In jet warfare, of course, speed is all-important, and failure to produce a fast navy jet fighter is the reason navy pilots are sitting on the sidelines off the Korean coast today.

Navy officials, when asked why Pratt-Whitney was given a contract for a more expensive engine when Allison was producing a better engine for one-third less, had no comment.

It is known, however, that one of the navy's civilian engine experts, Vernon Haynes, has been protesting vigorously inside the navy and has been arguing for the Allison engine. Mr. Haynes, being a civilian, presumably is not affected by army-air force rivalry.

Scores of other younger naval officers also feel strongly that the navy should accept the Allison engine. They point out, however, that if the navy ordered the Allison jet job, it would be made under air force supervision at Indianapolis, since the Allison plant is under air force "cognisance."

On the other hand, Pratt-Whitney at East Hartford, Conn., is under navy "cognisance," which means that Pratt-Whitney is one of the plants under navy jurisdiction.

Younger naval officers and the pilots who have to fly the planes believe that the chief reason the brass hats ordered 2,435 Pratt-Whitney engines at an extra cost to the taxpayer of $48,000,000 is because the air force had jurisdiction at the Allison plant, and the navy takes pride in developing its own engines in factories under its cognisance.

Tinkering With J-48

Pratt-Whitney has built some A-1 engines, but at present, the navy is still tinkering with the inadequate J-48, which the brass hats seem determined to force down the throats of navy pilots. Already $1,772,000 has been spent to put this engine in acceptable shape.

At first the engine had turbine blade failures, then screen failures which mixed up oil and gas inside the engine. On Jan. 17 the engine was grounded because of burning on take-off, a fuel nozzle having broken inside the combustion chamber. The engine was sent back to Pratt-Whitney for repairs, following which navy testers discovered incipient bearing failures, and later four flame-outs during the testing program.

In all, nine defects were discovered by navy testers during the tests at Patuxent. As of this writing, the engine is conditionally ungrounded for operation over land only, while Pratt-Whitney is working on a shotgun ignitor to throw magnesium into the engine at the start in order to prevent flame-outs. A flame-out on a jet engine means that the flame goes out—which is the equivalent of engine stalling.

Meanwhile navy pilots who have to fly these engines point out that the Allison engine has had almost none of this trouble—even though it is built under air force supervision.

Final Test

Finally Wright Parkins, Pratt-Whitney production engineer, told the navy: "Give me one of those Allison engines and I'll show you they're no good."

So the navy shipped two Allisons up to Pratt-Whitney, where they were tried out in a Grumman plane.

This was most unusual, since the navy maintains its own testing center at Patuxent at a cost of $4,000,000 a year, and the navy's own test is supposed to be the final word—not the test of a private manufacturer. However, navy brass hats, apparently anxious to please Pratt-Whitney, obliged.

The results of this test, even by Pratt-Whitney, were so satisfactory that one Pratt-Whitney engineer was fair enough to call the Allison representative in Washington and admit the superiority of the Allison engine.

Navy brass hats, however, are still trying to figure out ways of justifying their judgment in picking an engine which costs one-third more than one built under air force supervision, and of which they ordered 2,435 at an extra cost to the taxpayer of $48,000,000.

Enforced Arbitration in Labor Disputes Is Seen If Railroad Strike Spreads

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 10—Compulsory arbitration of labor disputes on the nation's railroads has been brought nearer by the suddenly called strike on the New York Central Lines.

When a private organization can at will tie up transportation in a vital section of the nation, interrupt passenger and freight traffic and interfere with the delivery of the mails, a case has been made for governmental action "in the public interest."

The device of issuing an injunction through the Federal courts, ordering the workers to resume their accustomed tasks, offers no solution. The strike which began on Sunday was called by the union leaders with full realization of the consequences—a court action. But this is now a piece of routine strategy and means merely that the unions choose such occasions primarily to inflict heavy damage on the railroads—it is costing the New York Central $1,000,000 a day in loss—in order to bring economic pressure to bear on the companies.

But, as matters stand today, the problem is tangled up in legal relationships. Thus, for instance, technically the railroads are being operated by the Army. It was on Aug. 4, 1950, that the heads of the railway conductors and trainmen unions telegraphed President Truman recommending to him that the government "take possession of and operate the railroads of the United States until such time as this dispute is settled in fairness to the rights of our members."

The dispute has been going on for three years, and ever since Aug. 25, 1950, when the railroads were put under the operating control of the United States Army, the parties have been trying to find a basis for settlement. The matter has been in and out of the White House and several attempts at compromise have failed.

In recent months the railroad unions have become rather petulant about Mr. Truman's course, and he is reported to have resented some of their criticism, being unwilling to see the railroad union spokesmen and preferring that they talk with John R. Steelman, his assistant, who is an expert on labor matters. But the union heads refuse to do business with Mr. Steelman, and thus the whole thing has drifted from bad to worse.

The sudden calling of a strike no doubt marks a decision to sharpen the issues and emphasize that the unions can act tough if they wish. The railroads, on the other hand, have all along promised the increases in wages that the unions have requested and have agreed to the forty-hour week, but have insisted that such changes require modifications in certain working rules. To this the unions have offered vehement objection.

It does seem as if the roads cannot very well agree to the demands without some stiff increases in rates, which the Interstate Commerce Commission has been reluctant to grant, and it does seem as if the railroad union leaders have got themselves into an adamant position from which it is politically difficult, inside the unions, for them to extricate themselves.

So compulsory arbitration—the hand of government as the final arbiter when the public interest suffers—is the only way out. Seizure of the properties has availed nothing. In fact, the unions may contest the legality of the form of seizure now in effect by claiming in court that the law of 1916 specifies government "possession." The union spokesmen say that "possession" means impounding the profits and actually taking the receipts into the federal treasury. But it also could mean impounding union dues and it could mean changing all the previously existing rules on the railroads to conform to those which the government itself might specify as working conditions.

The whole episode proves how weak is the machinery for settlement of labor disputes that affect the national interest, especially in time of national emergency. Distasteful as compulsory arbitration is to both the railroads and the unions, it may turn out to be the only solution for Mr. Truman to recommend instantly to Congress if the strike becomes nationwide, or if there are a series of paralyzing strikes in different regions of the country.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rome—I will try here to consolidate interviews which I had on successive days with Lloyd Free, a State Department career man, in charge of the propaganda program of the United States information service in Italy, and Leon Dayton, the administrator of the Mutual Security Administration, the autogenous pollywog of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Mr. Dayton has the rank of minister. I was told in a rather disparaging tone that he had qualified for his labors and responsibilities running a supermarket back home. I have often marveled at the abundance of fine food in the supermarkets of Tucson, Arizona, which I sometimes visit as a spectator, and at the wizardry of those who keep the inventories going. So Mr. Dayton's experience among the groceries, mops, meats and marshmallows does not suggest to me a garrulous ignoramus in an apron slightly gory from the butcher's block but a man smart enough to keep a thousand items in mind and a house dick's eye on the employees' exit at closing time for frying chickens, slabs of steak and one thing and another absconding out of stock.

Mr. Free's information service puts out all those lies about the condition of American labor under unions and about our social security system. However, these are package goods, shipped in from the State Department. The documents which Mr. Free and his staff have cooked up and planned in the factories of the Italian Red belt where the Communists are a serious menace, are quite ingenious. They camouflage their stuff inside red covers which seem to contain legitimate Bolshevik material but the text inside turns out to be anti-Red.

We have been paying a disguised subsidy to a little no-dice paper called the Rome American. Doris Duke, who seems to be a pretty good egg and made a number of friends among the American correspondents of Paris and Rome, put about $100,000 into this sheet to get it going and still owns some, I believe a majority, of the stock. There has been an inside fight over the ownership, however, which is not significant for these purposes so let us not bother about it. The paper seems to me to have no editorial character beyond a preference for left-wing syndicated canned goods. It clips editorials from American papers, runs Eleanor Roosevelt fitfully and carries regularly one of those cafe society time-wasters from a New York paper which supported both Bubblehead Wallace and Truman in '48. A real newspaperman could hardly resist writing features in this atmosphere but the Rome American is crowded with Press Asosciation copy on international affairs and gives fair but dull coverage.

"Prior to July 1, 1950," Mr. Free said, "in the same way that we subscribed to the New York Times and the Paris Tribune, we paid about $30,000 a year for subscriptions to the Rome American. These went mostly to persons in Italy but some went to Greece, Portugal, Spain and Libya and places behind the Iron Curtain. We wanted to get our stuff into the hands of people who were not likely to be subscribers themselves. We bought subscriptions to Time and Newsweek, also."

The New York Herald Tribune's Paris edition is a fair reflection of the old mother hen in New York, which manages an artful ambiguity on Communist activities. The Paris edition, which is sent to "selected" subjects at your expense, has a habit of clipping guest editorials from American papers which are sometimes to the left of F. D. Roosevelt. I have dealt with the political propaganda of the New York Times ere this and therefore will pass for the present.

"Congress later raised hell about our subscriptions to the Rome American so the State Department cut them out," Free said.

"Do you think these subscriptions have done any good?" I asked.

"I honestly don't know," Free said. 'We got the paper into the hands of a lot of people who otherwise never would have seen an American paper. It is not a good paper. The U.S.I.S. gave them $38,500 in 1950.

FRANCE IS IN BAD WAY

Recent events point up all too clearly that France is in a bad way, both financially and politically.

This is a matter of deep concern both to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which France is an important part, and to the United States, which is shelling out millions for France's rearmament.

The problems of France are many and complex. For one thing, dislocations of international trade have cut heavily into her exports. This can be economically disastrous.

Another thing is the costly war she is waging in Indo-China. If she could pull out of Indo-China her budget problems would be just about licked.

Involved in all France's money troubles is the very real problem of the tottering franc. Forty years ago it was worth 20 cents. At the beginning of World War II it had fallen to three cents. Falling steadily after World War II, it finally was pegged at one-third of a cent. And it looks as if even that won't hold.

Naturally, such devalued money puts a terrific hardship on the French people. The cost of living has zoomed 50 per cent in the last year and a half.

Against this spotty financial scene, Premier Faure went home to Paris from the NATO conference in Lisbon recently to tell the French what they were going to have to pay out for rearmament.

He informed the National Assembly that taxes would have to be raised 15 per cent to raise $4 billion for rearmament. The Assembly turned him down and the Faure government fell, only 40 days after it had come into power.

This illustrates a phase of France's political weakness which must be remedied if she is to have the stability to pull herself out of an extremely difficult situation.

How is France to correct this weakness? Many believe a change in the constitution will be required to bring about permanent benefit.

Short of that, the only answer appears to be the emergence of a single party with strength enough to endure for a sufficient length of time to carry out remedial financial policies.

Middle of the road governments have failed to do this since World War II, which leaves France in the unhappy position of perhaps having to choose between an extreme of right or left.

UNCLE TOM'S ANNIVERSARY

The best-known book of American literature was published on March 20th just a century ago. This was "Uncle Tom's Cabin," read by millions and long familiar through the stage versions put on by wandering troupes. The readers wept over the sufferings of Uncle Tom and the death of Eva, and laughed at the grotesque little Topsy. In the process they absorbed a hatred of slavery which did much to spread the gospel of abolition. Well might Lincoln say, when greeting the author, Harriet Beecher Stowe, in the White House, "This is the little woman who made this great war."

That the book was not a strictly accurate picture of slavery has often been emphasized. Yet Mrs. Stowe did not represent all slaveholders as cruel. The Shelby household in Kentucky, where the story opens, treated its slaves as members of the family. When Uncle Tom became the property of the Southern planter, St. Clair, he was treated humanely as long as his master lived. And it should not be forgotten that the villain of the book, Simon Legree, was no Southerner but a Yankee from New England. Mrs. Stowe was crusading against slavery, not against a particular section.

Read today, the novel seems to have much false sentiment and exaggeration. Yet exaggeration may have been necessary to carry the message. When a message is to be given to a large audience, it is often necessary to shout.

Mrs. Stowe's other books are little remembered, though one at least deserves to be recalled, "Oldtown Folks," stories of the Maine coast. She does not need fame from them. To write "Uncle Tom's Cabin" ensured her immortality.

Public opinion in favor of fun with sobriety would save a lot of alcoholic automobile accidents.

ANOTHER BRITISH ERROR

In 1931, when the Japanese invaded Manchuria, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson proposed to intervene with the object of preserving the territorial and administrative integrity of China as was guaranteed by the Nine Powers Treaty (1922). Sir John Simon, then minister of foreign affairs for Great Britain, turned Stimson down. President Hoover made private inquiries in Great Britain and discovered that there was no intention in that country to limit Japan's expansion, although that event led directly to the death of the League of Nations and World War II.

When General Douglas MacArthur was in Japan, he encountered stiff British opposition, particularly on economic measures looking forward to the rehabilitation of Japan. A constant campaign of ridicule was conducted against General MacArthur in the British press and by means of all the agencies of British propaganda; Great Britain's premature recognition of Soviet China has been an embarrassment to the United States and the United Nations and has forced upon our administration what might be termed the Marshall Policy in the Far East which has been costly in American lives in the Korean War.

Those two errors have brought to Great Britain no benefits; the first lost her an empire; the second may lose for her American support and friendship as well as China trade.

Now the British are engaged in making a third error, namely, a constant vilification of John Foster Dulles, who did manage to get a Japanese Peace Treaty and the Pacific Security Pacts written and accepted. Even those who find flaws in the Japanese Treaty admit that, considering the many conflicting views, the intransigence of Soviet Russia and the confusions of both American and British policy, Dulles, personally, did better than could have been expected.

British policy is based on the single objective of keeping America focussed on Europe and the preservation of the remaining remnants of the British Empire. Therefore, any diversion of attention is resented and found to be offensive. John Foster Dulles has emphasized the Pacific and its importance in American life and history; therefore, Dulles is to be ridiculed.

There is a sort of newsletter called "Foreign Report," published by "The Economist" in London. This paper speaks of " . . an important ginger group inside the Truman Administration has now begun pressing for a tougher American policy against Communist China."

Apparently that is a crime after we have had more than 106,000 casualties in Korea and have wasted eight months in futile conversation with the Communists while they have improved their military position. Calling John Foster Dulles the leader of this group, the aforesaid London newsletter, which is recognized as having close relations with the British Foreign Office, describes Dulles as ". . . Consutant to the secretary of state in the present administration, and who is—or thinks he is—a candidate for the job of secretary of state if the Republicans win the election. . . ."

That is an extremely nasty dig, implying that Dulles sacrifices American wefare to personal ambition which really has nothing to do with the problem we face. No one can now say who will be secretary of state, should a Republican be elected President, but whosoever it might be, Dulles will be consulted on Far Eastern questions as will General MacArthur. And it is probable that he will be considered for the secretary of state.

It would be smart if British publications and British propaganda showed us the courtesy of permitting us to choose our own leadership and our own counsel. In previous campaigns, particularly in the Roosevelt campaigns, there was too much British activity against Americans in opposition to the administration. This conduct will not be tolerated in the 1952 campaign and will be exposed if attempted.

The very term, isolationist, wholly incomprehensible in American history, was of British origin, designed to smear Herbert Hoover, Charles Lindbergh, William Randolph Hearst, Colonel Robert R. McCormick and other American leaders. What they said between 1938 and 1945 has been established in 1952 to have been correct in substance.

The smearing of John Foster Dulles is of a pattern which is deeply resented in this country. If we quarrel among ourselves, it is our quarrel, but when outsiders interfere, we shall unite in teling them to mind their own business. Americans intend to do their own choosing, without consultations.

Tinkering With J-48

Pratt-Whitney has built some A-1 engines, but at present, the navy is still tinkering with the inadequate J-48, which the brass hats seem determined to force down the throats of navy pilots. Already $1,772,000 has been spent to put this engine in acceptable shape.

At first the engine had turbine blade failures, then screen failures which mixed up oil and gas inside the engine. On Jan. 17 the engine was grounded because of burning on take-off, a fuel nozzle having broken inside the combustion chamber. The engine was sent back to Pratt-Whitney for repairs, following which navy testers discovered incipient bearing failures, and later four flame-outs during the testing program.

In all, nine defects were discovered by navy testers during the tests at Patuxent. As of this writing, the engine is conditionally ungrounded for operation over land only, while Pratt-Whitney is working on a shotgun ignitor to throw magnesium into the engine at the start in order to prevent flame-outs. A flame-out on a jet engine means that the flame goes out—which is the equivalent of engine stalling.

Meanwhile navy pilots who have to fly these engines point out that the Allison engine has had almost none of this trouble—even though it is built under air force supervision.

Final Test

Finally Wright Parkins, Pratt-Whitney production engineer, told the navy: "Give me one of those Allison engines and I'll show you they're no good."

So the navy shipped two Allisons up to Pratt-Whitney, where they were tried out in a Grumman plane.

This was most unusual, since the navy maintains its own testing center at Patuxent at a cost of $4,000,000 a year, and the navy's own test is supposed to be the final word—not the test of a private manufacturer. However, navy brass hats, apparently anxious to please Pratt-Whitney, obliged.

The results of this test, even by Pratt-Whitney, were so satisfactory that one Pratt-Whitney engineer was fair enough to call the Allison representative in Washington and admit the superiority of the Allison engine.

Navy brass hats, however, are still trying to figure out ways of justifying their judgment in picking an engine which costs one-third more than one built under air force supervision, and of which they ordered 2,435 at an extra cost to the taxpayer of $48,000,000.

Ancient Symbol

The cross has been used as a religious symbol since the dawn of civilization. Crosses of various designs, some dating from the Stone Age, have been found in nearly every part of Europe, as well as Egypt, India, Persia, and Syria.

Extinct Misfit

The titanotherium was one of the earth's misfits. This huge mammal once lived in North America, but there was not much room for brains in its thick skull, so the giant vanished, while smaller and smarter animals survived.

Non-Binding

Certain states of the Union hold primaries which permit voters to express a preference for presidential candidates. The results guide, but do not bind, delegates to the national convention.

Enforced Arbitration in Labor Disputes Is Seen If Railroad Strike Spreads

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 10—Compulsory arbitration of labor disputes on the nation's railroads has been brought nearer by the suddenly called strike on the New York Central Lines.

When a private organization can at will tie up transportation in a vital section of the nation, interrupt passenger and freight traffic and interfere with the delivery of the mails, a case has been made for governmental action "in the public interest."

The device of issuing an injunction through the Federal courts, ordering the workers to resume their accustomed tasks, offers no solution. The strike which began on Sunday was called by the union leaders with full realization of the consequences—a court action. But this is now a piece of routine strategy and means merely that the unions choose such occasions primarily to inflict heavy damage on the railroads—it is costing the New York Central $1,000,000 a day in loss—in order to bring economic pressure to bear on the companies.

But, as matters stand today, the problem is tangled up in legal relationships. Thus, for instance, technically the railroads are being operated by the Army. It was on Aug. 4, 1950, that the heads of the railway conductors and trainmen unions telegraphed President Truman recommending to him that the government "take possession of and operate the railroads of the United States until such time as this dispute is settled in fairness to the rights of our members."

The dispute has been going on for three years, and ever since Aug. 25, 1950, when the railroads were put under the operating control of the United States Army, the parties have been trying to find a basis for settlement. The matter has been in and out of the White House and several attempts at compromise have failed.

In recent months the railroad unions have become rather petulant about Mr. Truman's course, and he is reported to have resented some of their criticism, being unwilling to see the railroad union spokesmen and preferring that they talk with John R. Steelman, his assistant, who is an expert on labor matters. But the union heads refuse to do business with Mr. Steelman, and thus the whole thing has drifted from bad to worse.

The sudden calling of a strike no doubt marks a decision to sharpen the issues and emphasize that the unions can act tough if they wish. The railroads, on the other hand, have all along promised the increases in wages that the unions have requested and have agreed to the forty-hour week, but have insisted that such changes require modifications in certain working rules. To this the unions have offered vehement objection.

It does seem as if the roads cannot very well agree to the demands without some stiff increases in rates, which the Interstate Commerce Commission has been reluctant to grant, and it does seem as if the railroad union leaders have got themselves into an adamant position from which it is politically difficult, inside the unions, for them to extricate themselves.

So compulsory arbitration—the hand of government as the final arbiter when the public interest suffers—is the only way out. Seizure of the properties has availed nothing. In fact, the unions may contest the legality of the form of seizure now in effect by claiming in court that the law of 1916 specifies government "possession." The union spokesmen say that "possession" means impounding the profits and actually taking the receipts into the federal treasury. But it also could mean impounding union dues and it could mean changing all the previously existing rules on the railroads to conform to those which the government itself might specify as working conditions.

The whole episode proves how weak is the machinery for settlement of labor disputes that affect the national interest, especially in time of national emergency. Distasteful as compulsory arbitration is to both the railroads and the unions, it may turn out to be the only solution for Mr. Truman to recommend instantly to Congress if the strike becomes nationwide, or if there are a series of paralyzing strikes in different regions of the country.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rome—I will try here to consolidate interviews which I had on successive days with Lloyd Free, a State Department career man, in charge of the propaganda program of the United States information service in Italy, and Leon Dayton, the administrator of the Mutual Security Administration, the autogenous pollywog of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Mr. Dayton has the rank of minister. I was told in a rather disparaging tone that he had qualified for his labors and responsibilities running a supermarket back home. I have often marveled at the abundance of fine food in the supermarkets of Tucson, Arizona, which I sometimes visit as a spectator, and at the wizardry of those who keep the inventories going. So Mr. Dayton's experience among the groceries, mops, meats and marshmallows does not suggest to me a garrulous ignoramus in an apron slightly gory from the butcher's block but a man smart enough to keep a thousand items in mind and a house dick's eye on the employees' exit at closing time for frying chickens, slabs of steak and one thing and another absconding out of stock.

Mr. Free's information service puts out all those lies about the condition of American labor under unions and about our social security system. However, these are package goods, shipped in from the State Department. The documents which Mr. Free and his staff have cooked up and planned in the factories of the Italian Red belt where the Communists are a serious menace, are quite ingenious. They camouflage their stuff inside red covers which seem to contain legitimate Bolshevik material but the text inside turns out to be anti-Red.

We have been paying a disguised subsidy to a little no-dice paper called the Rome American. Doris Duke, who seems to be a pretty good egg and made a number of friends among the American correspondents of Paris and Rome, put about $100,000 into this sheet to get it going and still owns some, I believe a majority, of the stock. There has been an inside fight over the ownership, however, which is not significant for these purposes so let us not bother about it. The paper seems to me to have no editorial character beyond a preference for left-wing syndicated canned goods. It clips editorials from American papers, runs Eleanor Roosevelt fitfully and carries regularly one of those cafe society time-wasters from a New York paper which supported both Bubblehead Wallace and Truman in '48. A real newspaperman could hardly resist writing features in this atmosphere but the Rome American is crowded with Press Asosciation copy on international affairs and gives fair but dull coverage.

"Prior to July 1, 1950," Mr. Free said, "in the same way that we subscribed to the New York Times and the Paris Tribune, we paid about $30,000 a year for subscriptions to the Rome American. These went mostly to persons in Italy but some went to Greece, Portugal, Spain and Libya and places behind the Iron Curtain. We wanted to get our stuff into the hands of people who were not likely to be subscribers themselves. We bought subscriptions to Time and Newsweek, also."

The New York Herald Tribune's Paris edition is a fair reflection of the old mother hen in New York, which manages an artful ambiguity on Communist activities. The Paris edition, which is sent to "selected" subjects at your expense, has a habit of clipping guest editorials from American papers which are sometimes to the left of F. D. Roosevelt. I have dealt with the political propaganda of the New York Times ere this and therefore will pass for the present.

"Congress later raised hell about our subscriptions to the Rome American so the State Department cut them out," Free said.

"Do you think these subscriptions have done any good?" I asked.

"I honestly don't know," Free said. 'We got the paper into the hands of a lot of people who otherwise never would have seen an American paper. It is not a good paper. The U.S.I.S. gave them $38,500 in 1950.

Overcoming Pollution

New York, March 11 (AP)—Pollution of New York city's bathing beaches and adjacent areas by untreated sewage will be ended by the close of next year, the city board of health was told yesterday. The board received reports on progress made in reducing pollution at the city's beaches, adjacent waters, New York harbor and nearby oceanfront areas. The Interstate Sanitation Commission represents New York state, New Jersey and Connecticut in the job of cutting down pollution in New York harbor and nearby waterfront areas. Hess, speaking for the commission which was established in 1936, said that at that time hardly any sewage was being adequately treated. Fifty per cent of the sewage is receiving treatment, it was reported. It was predicted that the figure would be 75 per cent next year, when sewage treatment plants now under construction are completed.

Girl Is Winner In Poster Try

Miss Betty Bruno has been judged winner of the safety poster contest at Kingston High School, the Ulster County Safety Council announced today.

Kenneth Kouphoupt and Zigrid Vensko were runners-up.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk plans to have four metal replicas of the winning poster made to place on Broadway to remind high school students and pedestrians in that area to cross at the crosswalk . . . NOT in the middle of the block.

Richard M. Kalish, president of the Safety Council complimented the winners for their efforts. He thanked all the entrants for helping the Safety Council to bring safety and safety education to the attention of the public.

This contest was an effort not only to bring safety as such to the consciousness of the average citizen in Ulster county but also an attempt to help each Ulsterite realize that safety is an important part of his life and that of his family, Kalish said.

Warren F. Smith was designated recently to reproduce Miss Bruno's poster in color, for citywide distribution in the spring. Mayor Newkirk has heartily endorsed the idea.

What does it cost to cook for an average family?

- In 1932, it cost the average family cooking electrically $35.28 per year to prepare the cookable part of this 2½ tons.
- Today, in 1952, it costs the average family $31.80 per year for electricity to cook this same amount of food. (City gas is about equal in cost.)

But not all families cook electrically. We simply quote these electric statistics to illustrate that the price of electricity to all homes is lower today than it was 20 years ago. Naturally people forget that in the intervening years there were a number of rate reductions.

Of course, today you probably spend more for electricity but that's because you use more for more purposes. Keeping Family Intact Is Main Concern of Red Cross Heads

"The first job of the Red Cross, after giving immediate emergency relief in the shape of food, clothing and shelter in case of flood or other disaster, is that of keeping the destitute family together and getting it back to normal living," said Walter T. Tremper, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter Disaster Committee.

"This was clearly demonstrated in Ulster county where 250 families suffered damage in varying degree during the recent floods in the Esopus valley," said Mr. Tremper. "Of these families there were 40 who applied for Red Cross assistance. These families were in need of emergency relief, having suffered damage far beyond their own ability to rehabilitate themselves."

"Through the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, these flood sufferers received $13,052.29 from Red Cross funds for assistance. Many of them were able with this assistance again to become self-supporting and return to normal living," said Tremper.

Supplied Food

"We attempted through Red Cross funds to help these people who were financially unable to meet their tremendous losses by private means, to get re-established and become self supporting. Many had escaped with only the clothing on their backs. They lost homes, furnishings, tools and all means of livelihood. We supplied them with food, shelter and clothing even before the water had subsided and later assisted in placing their homes back in livable condition," Tremper explained.

"One man lost all his tools. We supplied him with $400 worth of tools of his trade and put him back to work. We helped him to help himself."

Following the disastrous flood on March 31, 1951, Sheriff Schantz designated the Red Cross in the county and Mayor Newkirk designated the Red Cross in the city as the official emergency agency to proceed with the work of rehabilitation. Two lives were lost in the flood.

Homes filled with slime and muck, some of them badly damaged by flood waters, presented a serious problem. Many of those affected were unable to meet the cost of rehabilitation. Clothing, bedding, household equipment was supplied and the work of cleaning up was started as soon as the waters had subsided. In one instance a cellar was filled with silt and it was necessary to purchase a new pump to supply water so the family could get back to normal living.

Experts Assisted

The emergency was so great expert Red Cross workers accustomed to working in flood areas were called in to assist the local Chapter volunteers.

A year after the flood there are still cases which have not been entirely closed.

Pointing out that assistance all the way from lost eyeglasses to repairs to damaged homes constituted the relief program, Mr. Tremper stated that during the emergency there was expended through the local Red Cross Chapter the sum of $163.33 for emergency food and clothing and maintenance; homes were repaired at a cost of $10,342.57. Household furnishings supplied cost $2,484.39. Medical and nursing care services cost $19 and service to families called for emergency expenditures of $43.

"Originally organized to give aid to men on the field of battle, the scope of Red Cross activities has widened over the years and work to aleviate human suffering in times of disaster has become one of the prime objectives of Red Cross," said Tremper.

"We are always ready to move in and give immediate aid when disaster falls. That calls for funds. The Red Cross must have those funds ready. The Ulster County Chapter is asking for $46,400 during March when the annual fund raising campaign is being conducted. Everyone should 'Answer the Call' when the worker comes and give generously to the Red Cross," concluded Tremper.

More Going to Church

New York, March 11 (AP)—The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. has produced statistics to show that church membership, far from "dying' 'in America, is growing twice as fast as the population as a whole. While the population of the country as a whole was growing only 28.6 per cent between 1926 and 1950, the council said yesterday, the total membership of the larger church groups increased 59.8 per cent. The figures cover 67 religious bodies having more than 50,000 members each. They represent 98 per cent of all members of some 256 religious groups in the country.

Emergency Plans

Athens, Greece, March 11 (AP)—A medical bulletin reported today that Premier Nicholas Plastiras appears to be recovering slightly from a paralytic stroke but the cabinet made emergency arrangements for Deputy Premier Sophocles Venizelos to take over the government. HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

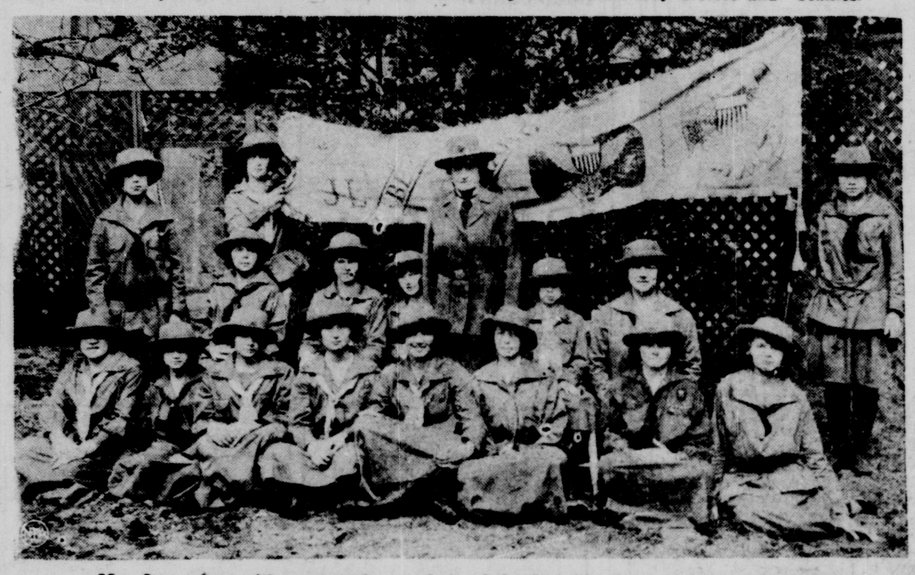
Girl Scouts Celebrate 40th Anniversary--

Forty years ago—on March 12, 1912—Mrs. Juliette Gordon Low founded the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. in her native Savannah. Twelve girls made up her first troop. Today there are 1,770,000 U. S. Girl Scouts and millions of "alumnae." Mrs. Low brought the idea of Scouting to this country from England, where she was associated with Lord Baden-Powell, who founded the Boy Scouts in 1908 and, with his sister, the Association of Girl Guides in 1910. Pictures below show Mrs. Low and early troops of Scouts and Brownies.

Juliette Gordon Low, founder of Girl Scouting in the U. S., was a Savannah, Ga., belle who married an Englishman and lived abroad until after his death. Her Scouts followed British pattern.

This is the Bluebell Troop, one of the first Brownie groups organized in 1916, four years after the Girl Scouts were founded. Lord Baden-Powell himself named the young Scouts "Brownies" after the useful "little people" of Scotland and England's North Country. Then their uniforms resembled those of the Scouts. Today Brownies wear crisp brown chambray dresses and "beanies."



Mrs. Low poses with some early members of the first Girl Scout troop in Savannah.

'Floyd Rhoades Fund'

March 7, 1952

Editor, The Freeman:

We want to extend the thanks and deep appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rhoades and ourselves to the many kind people who so generously responded to our appeal for assistance to this veteran who is a victim of multiple sclerosis.

We particularly want to express our gratitude to the Ulster Hose Company, No. 5, who have started a "Floyd Rhoades Fund" and to Austin Brown, Sawkill road, Kingston, who is giving much of his time to the setting up and management of this fund. Any further donations of money can be made to Mr. Brown at his address and will be greatly appreciated in this worthy cause.

The following poem was written by the famous New York Mirror columnist, Nick Kenny, during Brotherhood Week and it describes so well all those who have let their hearts dictate their kind actions:

Helping Hands

Each time we help someone in need
We forge a chain of friends.
For those we helped help other ones
A chain that never ends.
A cheerful word, a kindly call
When someone needs relief,
Can stem the bitter tears that fall
And lift the heavy grief.
The One on high will bless you
For a task He understands
When you start a shining rainbow chain
Of friendly, helping hands.

Sincerely,
MRS. LEONARD HINKLEY,

Would Check Pipelines

Trenton, N. J., March 11 (AP)—The New Jersey Senate last night ignored a plea by one member that state regulation of gas and oil pipelines was immediately necessary for public safety. Despite the plea by Senator Bernard Vogel (D-Middlesex), the Senate approved, 13-2, a bill okaying a state grant of a right-of-way in North Brunswick to a gas-transmitting firm — Transcontinental Gas pipe line. Vogel argued that before permitting any further installations of pipelines the state should empower some agency to regulate and oversee such operations. He said the pipelines have endangered lives.

Male Observers Briefed on Work

A special meeting for men observers of the Kingston Observation Post was held at the city hall Sunday for the purpose of issuing new U.S. Air Force identification cards and reviewing new instructions.

Mrs. George D. Logan, post supervisor, told the men that the post is still on a stand-by basis, but the personnel must be prepared for immediate service in case of emergency.

It is important for women and men to study their instructions, to attend all meetings and training classes when notified by Mrs. Barbara Matthews, chief observer, and to prepare themselves to report for duty whenever called upon for a test alert practice or for a real emergency, Mrs. Logan said.

Appointed to assist Morris Cooper and Raymond McAndrew with night shift work were William Ertelt, Howard Hoffman, George Bode, Huyler Van Wagenen, Theodore Kolb, Frank Fraccasse and Robert Deegan.

The duties of these men will include being ready at any time during the night to man the post, and to be responsible for the 12 midnight to 8 a. m. shifts on their appointed nights if the post should be called upon for 24-hour duty.

Mrs. Matthews, speaking at the Sunday meeting, said that there is urgent need for more men to serve during the two-hour shifts between midnight and 8 a. m. The shifts must be filled on stand-by basis as soon as possible, and men wishing to volunteer should call her at 170, Mrs. Matthews said.

All observers will receive new manuals in the near future, Mrs. Logan revealed.

Pleased With Test

Mrs. Logan also expressed her pleasure at the response to the emergency test on March 2. She revealed that she was notified from White Plains of the surprise test alert at 10:04 a. m. that date. She immediately contacted Mrs. Matthews, the chief observer, who in turn reported the post manned and operating at 10:10 a. m. The first two spotters available with Mrs. Matthews for the surprise test were Mrs. Mabel MacAvery and Mrs. Ruth Styles.

Work Piles Up

Trenton, N. J., March 11 (AP)—The New Jersey Legislature met yesterday after a month-long recess. To all outward appearances neither House accomplished very much. But, behind the scenes the work piled up. Hundreds of bills were ready for action. Members of both Houses agreed once-a-week meetings were not enough to meet the work-load. Beginning next week, the Legislature has scheduled meetings for Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. It has set the end of the first week of April as a target for adjournment for the year.

To Interrupt Programs

The Kingston Office of Civilian Defense today issued a reminder to residents not to become alarmed when radio and television programs are interrupted briefly at an unannounced time this week.

The interruption will be a part of a state-wide emergency test of Civil Defense communications. The test will involve every radio and TV station in New York state.

Keeping Family Intact Is Main Concern of Red Cross Heads

"The first job of the Red Cross, after giving immediate emergency relief in the shape of food, clothing and shelter in case of flood or other disaster, is that of keeping the destitute family together and getting it back to normal living," said Walter T. Tremper, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter Disaster Committee.

"This was clearly demonstrated in Ulster county where 250 families suffered damage in varying degree during the recent floods in the Esopus valley," said Mr. Tremper. "Of these families there were 40 who applied for Red Cross assistance. These families were in need of emergency relief, having suffered damage far beyond their own ability to rehabilitate themselves."

"Through the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, these flood sufferers received $13,052.29 from Red Cross funds for assistance. Many of them were able with this assistance again to become self-supporting and return to normal living," said Tremper.

Supplied Food

"We attempted through Red Cross funds to help these people who were financially unable to meet their tremendous losses by private means, to get re-established and become self supporting. Many had escaped with only the clothing on their backs. They lost homes, furnishings, tools and all means of livelihood. We supplied them with food, shelter and clothing even before the water had subsided and later assisted in placing their homes back in livable condition," Tremper explained.

"One man lost all his tools. We supplied him with $400 worth of tools of his trade and put him back to work. We helped him to help himself."

First Little Girl—My father went to State College. Where did yours go?

Second Little Girl—Oh, he went to State College too. Why? Is there any place else to go?

Some showgirls have calved a great career for themselves.

Gerald—Horse racing is the sport of love.

Edith—What do you mean?

Gerald—I always kiss my dough goodbye!

A story just released on the earliest days of the war concerns an officer in charge of a British station in the heart of Africa. The officer received the following wireless message from his superior officer:

"War declared: arrest all enemy aliens in your district."

With commendable promptness the superior officer received this reply:

"Have arrested seven Germans, three Belgians, two Frenchmen, four Italians, one Austrian, two Russians and an American. Please say with whom we are at war."

Man—My son seems anxious for a literary career.

Neighbor—What are you going to do with him?

Man—Have him study to be a doctor.

An attorney on being called to account for having acted unprofessionally in taking less than the usual fees from his client, pleaded that he had taken all the man had. He was thereupon honorably acquitted.

Customer—Look here. I sent my son for some extract of beef and you sent him back with a bottle of milk. What's the idea?

Bright New Clerk—Well, milk's an extract of beef, isn't it?

The road to war is paid with the taxpayers dollars.

Carol—I might take it that you don't want me around.

Wyatt—You might. Why don't you?

Cyetus—Gee, I'm late, what's the score?

Robert—Nothing and nothing.

Cletus—Gosh, am I glad I didn't miss anything.

Kerhonkson Pupils Study Water Works

Kerhonkson, March 11 — The senior citizenship education class of Kerhonkson High School has been studying in detail the New York city public water supply system.

The study project included visits to the Merriman and Neversink dams. A trip to the project area March 1 was arranged through the cooperation of the class instructor, Robert C. Cummings, and Roy Gunther, general superintendent of the S. A. Healy Construction Company, contractors.

The students first were shown the Merriman dam, then proceeded to the tunnel construction area at Grahamsville, where they visited the workshop and watched construction on the tunnel which will connect the Neversink and Rondout reservoirs.

The journey then took the students to the Neversink dam, where Gunther explained problems encountered in the construction of the tunnel, and told how the problems were solved.

The field trip followed a class unit on water supply.

THE SAAR, one of Europe's hotspots, became an issue again during the NATO conference as the French-German dispute over it became the worst barrier to European unification. This rich coal-mining area of 900 square miles lies across a natural pathway between France and Germany. Trade flows across the Saar in times of peace—just as armies march across it during times of war. Romans and Gauls fought Germanic tribes in the territory. French forces under Louis XIV and Napoleon battled the Germans during the Franco-Prussian wars. Allied forces marched into the area during both World Wars. Severed from Germany after World War I, the Saar was made a separate entity and governed until 1934 by the League of Nations. In 1935, with Hitler and German nationalism on the rise, a plebiscite was held and the Saar was returned to Germany. Under terms of the Versailles treaty Germany bought back the Saar mines and paid France for damage she did to coal mines in northern France. After World War II, the Saarlanders voted overwhelmingly for an economic union with France. During 1950, agreements were signed between France and the Saar giving the territory a larger measure of autonomy, while France got a 50-year lease on the coal mines pending a final German peace treaty. The West German government protested the lease, claiming their constitution provides that its government take over all the property of the Third Reich—and the Saar was part of that state. France wants the land because of economic necessity as well as fear of German aggression. The U. S., in its attempt to make NATO an effective weapon against Soviet imperialism, found itself caught between France's desire for the Saar, and Germany's threat to refuse NATO partnership if the Saar isn't returned to her.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Since that column of Feb. 14 on the subject of the dispute of the 300th Anniversary dates of 1652 and 1658, there has been a sort of avalanche of comments from readers. In the column of Feb. 27, I mention the one 'phone call I received at that time. But now readers ask, "Why this 300th Anniversary in 1952 when the 250th Anniversary of the Founding of Kingston was in 1908?" Robert Matthews brought me a metal plaque made for the Kingston Anniversary of 1908, it was that important at the time. Some of my readers have brought me Kingston photographs of the events. One of the readers brought me a Kingston view postal card, as can be found at any postal card stand here of the Old Reformed Protestant Dutch Church, under which is printed, "Church organized in 1659, Kingston, N. Y." I was asked by the reader, "How come, a sketch of this church is on the Kingston Tercentenary posters, yet dates given on same posters are 1652-1952, while the church edifice was not built till 1659?" In fact, one reader said, that the Dutch were a religious group and did not gather to worship till 1658 when the Stockade was built, as then they could gather in a group. History has many sides, and I am always glad to present as many of them as come to me from reliable sources.

Mr. Matthews also brought me the Kingston Daily Express of May 30, 1908, which was the Souvenir number (1658-1908) giving the history of Kingston from the beginning. The entire copy seems devoted to it. No doubt many folks have seen it. I have a copy of it somewhere myself besides the one Mr. Matthews loaned me.

Al Kurdt, secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce wrote me an interesting letter stating in part: "We are celebrating the 300th Anniversary of the Chamber's Deed, the first recorded title to land in this area, long before definite boundaries of villages and states were decided upon. We are also celebrating the 300th Anniversary of the first permanent settlement in the area and NOT THE FOUNDING OF KINGSTON OR THE BUILDING OF THE STOCKADE in 1658. This can and should be celebrated in 1958." Of course, most folks love pageantry and celebrations whether they come in 1952 or 1958, but what will historians and other cities along the Hudson think, if we go all out for celebrations every couple of years.

Mr. Kurdt also stated in his letter that July 6, "could be made a big day for downtown by working with the Power Boat Association." Of course that is on one side of the town. Rondout has so much history and events to cover, that I don't think a few speeches will adequately cover it. No doubt most of the folks who haven't cars will have to huddle near the Rondout Creek Bridge to see anything, unless they want to walk down the steep hill and back. I'd say it was a good mile or more from the Rondout Bridge and that makes it several miles away from center of Rondout. Oh, well, I only hope when the celebrities visit Kingston that they are taken through the Rondout section so folks on Broadway can see them, and not rushed up Wurts street in cars or up Hasbrouck avenue. But we Rondout folks are used to that. Remember when Admiral Richard E. Byrd was taken up Hasbrouck avenue, and none of us downtowners saw him unless we went uptown.

Ives Praises Assembly

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) says New York's Assembly, where he once served, is the "greatest legislative body in the world." The assemblymen gave Ives a rising ovation after he had paid his compliments at last night's session. Ives served as minority leader, majority leader and speaker in the Assembly before his election to the U. S. Senate in 1946. He declined to discuss his political plans with reporters. He is expected to be a candidate for re-election this fall.

As Pegler Sees It

centages on the city and provincial elections last May but they lost in many important localities, and control means jobs. You know. Patronage. The more intellectual people are the more they want so you can't say that communism is a question of human misery. The press is not a good way to reach the workers because less than half the adults read any paper. Not more than 40 per cent of the homes have radios and pamphlets are the best way. We lay them down in factories and get people who are beyond the press and radio.

"Our trouble is that we let the Reds rush in and grab everything after the war. Money, printing presses, buildings. Everything that the Fascist party and the government had in those days. The Communists grabbed them and they still have them."

Mr. Dayton seemed pretty candid. He said they had just changed the names on the doors when the ECA became the MSA but had shipped home a lot of people who were financial experts and had taken on new types for the new problems promoting "security" under the military defense program. However, they are still turning out "documentary" films and my eyebrows went over onto my shoulder blades when, in the catalog, I saw that Orson Welles, who has been notorious for years in the Hollywood fronts, had done the "commentary" for one of them. How come this? Oh, Frank Gervasi, formerly of Collier's, had found Welles available and had used him. Gervasi ran to hysteria over the Hyde Park mahatma during the war, but I saw him a few nights ago and he seemed cured. But if he thinks Welles is all right he may be springing Charlie Chaplin and John Garfield on us next. He has a contract to do 13 more films and will bear close watching.

Dayton thought the Rome American was worth-while, even at $46,000 a year, which is the present cost of the subscriptions.

He is the only one in any of our services over here who has expressed an honest opinion of the expensive and luxurious "missions" of the AF of L and the CIO to save Europe from communism.

"The U. S. Government doesn't need any help from them in administering our foreign relations," he said, "Most of these so-called Communists here are not Communists anyway. They are just unhappy over their standard of living. I think we made a bad mistake when we sent their king away."

Women's Music Group Studies Berlioz Work

Addressing the Music Appreciation Group at the YWCA Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Conrad Heiselman presented a complete analysis of the Berlioz Symphonie Fantastique.

The work which marked a milestone in the composer's career was described as that of a talented tone-poet and master of orchestral techniques as well as a high-strung imaginative artist.

At the very beginning of his career, Berlioz announced "I have taken up music at the point where Beethoven left off." Mrs. Heiselman acquiesced in this remark and said, "Beethoven's symphonies were the first ever written which fused poetic ideas with musical expression. Berlioz carried on this form and in the work under consideration, the first movement is constructed according to the usual symphonic procedure of having two themes stated in contrast, followed by their development and reprise."

The second movement was described as an adaptation of a dance rhythm and a scene in the country is fashioned after the spirit of Beethoven's book.

Berlioz, the speaker declared invented an "Idee fixe" or central theme running through all the sections of his symphony. This was a unifying device that organized musical moments about a single subject, at once musical and dramatic.

A complete recording of the symphony was heard by the group and Mrs. Heiselman called attention to the various motifs contained therein.

In concluding her talk, the speaker said, "It is important to remember that this type of music laid the foundation for Wagner, Strauss and Stravinsky."

At the tea which followed, Mrs. William Ochs and Mrs. Willard Burke were hostesses with Mrs. Alfred Schmid pouring.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, March 20, in the home of Mrs. Henry Millonig, 99 Clinton avenue.

Philosophical Living Was Theme of Talk By Former Mounty at Dinner Club Meeting

Throughout his interesting and informative talk last night at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Sydney R. Montague, former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, addressing the National Dinner Club, stressed philosophy and its application to everyday living.

The philosopher adventurer is the author of North to Adventure, Riders in Scarlet and numerous poems and short stories. He has just completed the material for a new book which will be published this year.

The former Mounty described innumerable opportunities for the youth of today, which are prevalent north of the Arctic Circle for those who are courageous enough to seek them.

Mr. Montague addressed the Dinner Club members some five years ago. It was evident from the enthusiastic reception he received last night that he is more popular than ever with this group as so many members, at the conclusion of the meeting, requested that he be invited to return in the near future.

At its next meeting, Monday, April 14, Hal Boyle, well-known columnist whose commentaries are syndicated in 600 newspapers throughout the country will be the guest speaker. He will speak on the current situation in Korea.

Will Your Permanent for Easter "Lay an Egg?"

Kingston, N. Y., March 11 — When a comedian tells a joke that fails to get a laugh, he "lays an egg," as they say in theatrical lingo . . . but that isn't bad for a comic — he can come back with a fresh gag that gives you a big chuckle and makes you forget his previous dud.

But it is no laughing matter with your Easter permanent. You can't afford to "lay an egg." That is why Mickey's offers this tip to those who would be Easterrific this year—be sure you get your permanent early enough to allow a setting or two before the big day. This insures your hair of a soft and natural curly look.

Meet us in Mickey's in March.

Women's Music Group Studies Berlioz Work

Addressing the Music Appreciation Group at the YWCA Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Conrad Heiselman presented a complete analysis of the Berlioz Symphonie Fantastique.

The work which marked a milestone in the composer's career was described as that of a talented tone-poet and master of orchestral techniques as well as a high-strung imaginative artist.

At the very beginning of his career, Berlioz announced "I have taken up music at the point where Beethoven left off." Mrs. Heiselman acquiesced in this remark and said, "Beethoven's symphonies were the first ever written which fused poetic ideas with musical expression. Berlioz carried on this form and in the work under consideration, the first movement is constructed according to the usual symphonic procedure of having two themes stated in contrast, followed by their development and reprise."

The second movement was described as an adaptation of a dance rhythm and a scene in the country is fashioned after the spirit of Beethoven's book.

Berlioz, the speaker declared invented an "Idee fixe" or central theme running through all the sections of his symphony. This was a unifying device that organized musical moments about a single subject, at once musical and dramatic.

A complete recording of the symphony was heard by the group and Mrs. Heiselman called attention to the various motifs contained therein.

In concluding her talk, the speaker said, "It is important to remember that this type of music laid the foundation for Wagner, Strauss and Stravinsky."

At the tea which followed, Mrs. William Ochs and Mrs. Willard Burke were hostesses with Mrs. Alfred Schmid pouring.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, March 20, in the home of Mrs. Henry Millonig, 99 Clinton avenue.

Will Your Permanent for Easter "Lay an Egg?"

Kingston, N. Y., March 11 — When a comedian tells a joke that fails to get a laugh, he "lays an egg," as they say in theatrical lingo . . . but that isn't bad for a comic — he can come back with a fresh gag that gives you a big chuckle and makes you forget his previous dud.

But it is no laughing matter with your Easter permanent. You can't afford to "lay an egg." That is why Mickey's offers this tip to those who would be Easterrific this year—be sure you get your permanent early enough to allow a setting or two before the big day. This insures your hair of a soft and natural curly look.

Meet us in Mickey's in March.

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Distinctive automobile license plates would be provided for clergymen under terms of an Assembly-approved bill sent the Senate yesterday. Good Taste Today

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

NO RUDENESS IN REFUSING

Today's first letter is from a reader who tells me: 'I am of the Catholic faith and during the course of the year, there are many days on which the eating of meat is not allowed. When invited to the house of a non-Catholic friend on such a day and the main course happens to be meat, how can I tactfully refuse this dish?"

You simply say, "No thank you." It is never necessary to take some of everything passed to you if you don't want it. In other words, it is not considered bad manners to refuse a dish. On the other hand, if the meal consists of a single dish of meat and vegetables combined (such as a stew), your refusal of it certainly would be commented on by your hostess, and you would then have to explain, "I can't eat it because it is a fast day." She might then offer you some eggs, which you could accept.

Awkward Situation for Bridegroom

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon and as my fiancee's family are not too well off, the wedding is to be limited to members of both families. I am a member of a small club, and heretofore whenever any of the members were married, the whole group received invitations to the wedding. Since I will not be able to follow this practice, would it be in good taste to write each one a personal note explaining the circumstances rather than send them announcements?

Answer: Although it is usually best to make excuses, I think your situation is the exceptional one that would best be explained as you suggest.

Refreshments Not a Meal

Dear Mrs. Post: If no knives are needed at a luncheon, should they be put on the table anyway? That is, is a table setting incomplete without them?

Answer: Yes. The table setting for any meal is incomplete without one knife and one fork, and usually a spoon. But if you are merely going to have simple refreshments, it is correct to put on only those implements which will be used.

What type of music is played at the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her booklet No. 501, "Weddings," includes details for wedding procedure and the reception. To obtain a copy send 25 cents in coin to her c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. A Shamrock Garden for You

A SHAM-ROCK GARDEN for St. Patrick's Day is made of raw fresh potatoes, asparagus greens, paper shamrocks and ferns.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

When a young woman's name is Kelley and she is also a top food expert, she's the one to ask about a St. Patrick's Day menu.

So I discussed this article with Janette Kelley, head of the home service department of General Mills, while we were fellow passengers aboard a stratocruiser, flying from New York to Minneapolis.

"For an appropriate centerpiece, have a Sham-rock Garden," she suggested. "Arrange well-scrubbed Irish potatoes on a large mirror or glass plate to resemble a rock garden. Let sprigs of asparagus greens or maiden-hair fern peep out among the 'rocks.'

"Mount green paper shamrocks on stems of wooden picks tinted green wtih food coloring; 'plant' them among the 'rocks.' More ferns made a border around the arrangement."

Divine Kelley Lime Pie
(Serves 8)

Meringue Shell: Beat only until frothy throughout 4 egg whites and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Beat in gradually 1 cup sugar. Continue beating until very stiff and glossy.

Spread in a lightly greased 9-inch pie pan, making a slight depression in the center. Bake 20 minutes in slow oven (275 degrees F.) then increase to 300 degrees F. and continue baking 40 minutes. Cool slowly.

Filling: Mix together 4 egg yolks, well beaten, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 1/3 cup lime juice. Cook over hot water 10 minutes or until thick. Cool. Tint pale green with food coloring, if desired.

Fold in 1 tablespoon grated lime rind, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. Spread over baked meringue shell. Whip 1 cup heavy cream. Sweeten, if desired. Spread over filling. Sprinkle with grated lime rind. Chill at least 4 hours.

Maybe the lakes far below us made Miss Kelley think of fish as she suggested crispy fried pike as the main dish.

Crispy Fried Pike
(Serves 6)

Place in a shallow pan or dish 6 serving-sized pike fillets. Add enough sour milk to cover and 1 teaspoon salt for each pound of filleted fish. Let stand for 20 to 45 minutes. Drain.

Dip each fillet in prepared biscuit mix. Pan-fry over low heat in 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons shortening. Cook until fish is well browned and slightly crisp on one side. Turn and repeat on second side.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Sliced bananas and ready-to-eat cereal, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Toasted bacon and cheese sandwiches, cabbage and apple salad, caramel custard, tea, milk.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY DINNER: Crispy fried pike, baked potatoes, minted green peas, cabbage and green pepper salad, cloverleaf rolls, butter or fortified margarine, divine lime pie, coffee, milk.

Don Evans Shares Top Billing With Vern Gagne at Auditorium Friday

'Kingston Killer' Meets Jack Allen, St. Louis Toughie

Don Evans, of nearby Flatbush, who is famous throughout the wrestling world as the "Kingston Killer," will share the spotlight with the sensational Verne Gagne on the professional wrestling card on Friday night at the municipal auditorium.

Evans is paired with Jack Allen, a newcomer from St. Louis, over the two out of three falls distance.

Vern Gagne, the new star of the Saturday night Chicago television network, meets the veteran Chris Zaharias in the feature bout, best of three falls.

A 30-minute time limit contest will complete the card for Promoter Ted Bayly's first promotion in Kingston.

Enthusiastic response to Promoter Bayly's double-barrelled attraction of two of the most prominent names in the wrestling game is reflected in heavy requests for tickets from Hudson, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and other mid-Hudson cities.

Operates Own Farm

Don Evans operates a farm in South Flatbush on Route 32 and lives at the family homestead with his parents, wife and young son, Don Evans, Jr., when he is not beating the trails around the country. He drives fabulous distances to keep wrestling dates.

DON EVANS

Once one of the cleanest grapplers in the game, Evans found out it didn't pay. After suffering a leg fracture in a bout at Montreal — principally because of rough tactics on the part of his opponent, Don decided that henceforth he would be tough, too.

And Mr. Evans did a beautiful job of it. He quickly earned a reputation as ring killer and a bad man equalled by few, if any, not even the Lavern Baxters, Tarzan Hewitt's and other toughies.

Evans made one appearance in Kingston during the regime of Promoter Bill Johnston of New York and gave old Abe Coleman a terrific going over. They have clamored for his return ever since.

In several bouts at Troy this winter, Evans has all but torn down the ring in battles with fellows like Tarzan Hewitt and Laverne Baxter.

Gagne Is Terrific

Verne Gagne, the co-headliner, is the newest sensation of wrestling and his appearance on the Saturday Chicago TV network has made him known to millions of Americans.

Gagne, a sturdy 215-pounder, features a "sleeper" hold as his best offensive weapon. However, he is adept at arm and leg holds and throws a mean flying block.

Since turning professional two years ago, Gagne has battled the best in the pro game, including world champion Lou Thesz whom he held to a draw in Chicago six weeks ago. Each scored a fall in a match that drew 11,000 fans.

Wrestlers of the main-event stature of Gagne and Don Evans seldom appear on the same card in these parts. But Promoter Ted Bayly is anxious to make his first card a standout attraction. Sharp public response is already evident.

Ticket reservations can be made by calling the Tommy Maines Sport Shop, 6039.

HVBL Will Roll on Saturdays; C. Riccardi Elected President

Final Notice

All local entries for the state tournament have been processed and must be turned over to the printers for the official schedule. Fees must be paid at once.

Area Circuit Holds Annual Banquet

After 15 years of Sunday afternoon bowling, the Hudson Valley Bowling League, the area's premier travelling circuit, will switch to Saturday night for the 1952-53 campaign.

Captains and officials voted the change at the annual banquet Saturday night at the Indian Valley Inn at Kerhonkson and elevated Charles Riccardi, Saugerties bowling proprietor, to the presidency.

Charles Manfro, of Kingston, captain of the Elston Sports squad, was named vice-president and Bert Rhea, "Mr. Bowling of Poughkeepsie" was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Nearly 100 bowlers and guests attended the function which was arranged by Al Milliot, of Ellenville, the retiring president. Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor, was the master of ceremonies.

Heeding a warning from Secretary Rhea that the future of the league would be jeopardized if the Sunday schedule were maintained, the league directors and captains quickly voted the change to Saturday.

Jones Lauds Area

Jerry Tenhope, former HVBL secretary and president of the 700 Club of the Hudson Valley, presented 700 awards.

Guest speakers included Addison Jones of Kingston, who founded the HVBL on Nov. 6, 1934 at the Richburg and Howe alleys in Walden; Peter Keresman, founder of the Kingston Bowling Association; and James Catania, secretary of the New York State Bowling Proprietors' Association.

Jones reminisced on the growth of the league and then paid tribute to the marvelous support the area cities and villages have given the 27th annual state championships in Kingston. He pointed out that the entry would approach 1575 teams, making Kingston's tourney the fourth largest in history. He had warm praise for Bert Rhea of Poughkeepsie, Ed Beebe of Middletown, Al Milliot of Ellenville, Eddie Gordon of Newburgh for the work they did in recruiting teams for the Kingston event.

Poughkeepsie will lead the area cities with nearly 100 teams, Jones said. Middletown will be represented by 37, Newburgh 25 and Ellenville 12.

New Movement

James Catania, NYSBPA secretary, who spent several days in Kingston organizing the Hudson Valley Bowling Proprietors Assn. said valley topnotchers had been "shut off" from the bowling world too long. He said the organization of the Hudson Valley division of the state and national bowling proprietors group would make all valley keglers eligible to qualify for the All Star singles classic in December, the doubles and team events.

Catania expressed confidence that area proprietors would align with the valley group and insure the eligibility of all their bowlers.

Peter Keresman congratulated the league for maintaining its high standards and pointed out that the entry for the Kingston state tournament blasted the old theory that small towns could not handle a state championship.

Charles Riccardi, vice-president, said he considered it an honor to be an officer of the league and expressed hope that the circuit would continue to grow. President Milliot opened the dinner by expressing his thanks for the cooperation he received during the season and said Kerhonkson was happy to be host to the annual affair.

Cy's Diners of Newburgh, who captured their third successive crown this season, picked up a check for their efforts. The Diners finished eight games ahead of Rapp's Express with 55 wins and 17 losses.

Kerhonkson Cops Checker Tourney

Charlie Clearwater, Mid-Hudson Valley checker champion, won six straight games and scored 60 points to lead Kerhonkson to an 85-75 victory over Kingston in a match here Sunday. Bill Rappaport led the local contingent with 35 points. Because of lack of time, two matches were not played. Rappaport, captain of the local team, announced that the annual Mid-Hudson tournament is scheduled in Newburgh on April 19.

Light Pay'

San Francisco, March 11 (AP)—Middleweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson will draw his paycheck and box his final practice rounds today for his title defense against Carl (Bobo) Olson Thursday night. Promoter William Kyne will give Robinson $1 — the champ's share of the purse. Profits of the 15-rounder go to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Honor Old Timers

Carl "Dutch" Glaser and Joseph "Kid" Moore, two veteran baseball stars, will be the guests of honor at the second annual Old Timers Baseball dinner at 6:30 tonight at the Hotbrau.

St. Louis and Duquesne in NIT Debut; Bonnies Win; La Salle Upsets St. Johns

New York, March 11 (AP)—Eddie Hickey and Dudey Moore, whose St. Louis University and Duquesne teams make their first appearances in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, did a little scouting from the upstairs press box at Madison Square Garden last night.

They were somewhat less impressed by what they saw than the 18,310 enthusiastic fans who watched St. Bonaventure and LaSalle make their way into the semi-finals and Holy Cross come through belatedly with a smashing first-round victory.

St. Bonaventure, almost blowing a huge lead, barely outlasted Western Kentucky, 70-69. LaSalle provided the tournament's first real upset, whipping third-seeded St. John's of Brooklyn, 51-45.

Holy Cross came through with a flashy final quarter to rout Seattle University, 77-72.

O'Brien Sets Record

LaSalle's Norm Grekin broke the tournament record for foul shooting when he netted 13 free throws in the second game. This new tournament mark lasted only until the next contest when Seattle's little Johnny O'Brien, topped it with 15.

O'Brien who scored more than 1,000 points in the regular season was held to three field goals. But his foul shooting equalled the Garden record of 15, made in 1947 by Mac Otten of Bowling Green.

Hickey, the serious little St. Louis coach who has an intense dislike for "control" basketball, watched St. Bonaventure botch an effort to slow down the action against Western Kentucky and remarked:

"I don't think any team can be good without a fast break. St. Bonaventure essentially is not a fast-breaking team and it didn't have the weapon when it was pressed. The game demonstrated the value of a pressing defense."

Hickey Praises Bonnies

Hickey, whose team plays the Bonnies next if it wins, gave them credit for "playing beautiful ball until the press upset them." St. Bonaventure, slow to start, nearly broke the game apart in the third quarter to run up a 60-50 lead, but they were in trouble as soon as the scrappy Kentuckians went after the ball.

Moore credited the smart St. John's defense with holding Tom Gola, the touted La Salle freshman in check, but Ken Loeffler, the La Salle coach who has lost to Moore's Dukes once this season, had a different version.

"Both teams played a bad game," he said, "and we'd rather play anybody but Duquesne—even the Philadelphia Warriors."

KHSatMontPleasant; NFA-Albany Here

DUSO Basketball League prestige will be on the line tonight, when Kingston High faces Mont Pleasant at Saratoga Springs at 8 o'clock and Newburgh Free Academy tangles with Albany High at the Kingston municipal auditorium at the same time.

Mont Pleasant and Albany High are co-champions of the capital district. The Red Raiders have won the intersectionals the past two years. Newburgh, DUSO champion, carries a 19-game winning streak into tonight's game at the auditorium.

Harry Smith Set For Golden Gloves

Four defending champions have already sent in entries for the Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves tourney scheduled for Odd Fellows Hall, Albany, March 18 and 19.

The 1951 kings who will return to defend honors are Harry Smith, of Berkshire School, Canaan, who won the 126-open crown; Ken House, 175-open winner from Amsterdam; Joe Hudson of Albany, heavyweight champ, and Freddie Jackson of Troy, winner of the 112-pound open title last year. Jackson has stepped up a class this year and will seek honors on the 118-pound division.

Smith is considered one of the top mittslingers ever to compete in the Gloves meet. Two years ago he was awarded the trophy as the outstanding boy in the tourney.

House, Hudson and Jackson all attracted attention last year with impressive wins.

Honors will be at stake in both open and novice classes when the two-day meet is run off under the auspices of the Albany Elks Club. Champions in all divisions will be awarded Golden Gloves and the open class winners will be sent to Boston for the National AAU meet next month.

New York—Vince Martinez, 151½, Paterson, N. J., stopped Sal DiMartino, Hartford, Conn. (6).

New Hunting Laws Before Senate

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—The Senate was asked to give final legislative approval to a special big-game season for bow-and-arrow enthusiasts in New York state.

The measure, which cleared the Assembly last night, would permit archers to kill a bear and a buck deer or doe in the 14 days prior to the regular big-game season. A special $5.25 license would be required.

In other conservation actions:

1—The Senate gave final approval, 39-15, to a bill that would close the Beaverkill and Willowemoc streams in the Catskill Mountains as sources of municipal water supplies.

New York city opposed the measure, which was designed to protect the world-famous trout streams. The metropolis was reported to be planning new water-supply dams in the area covered by the streams.

2—The Assembly approved, and sent to the Senate, a bill to require all persons under 21 to pass an examination in the safe handling of firearms before receiving a hunting license. Present law requires such tests for those under 17.

3—The Assembly also sent to the Senate a measure to extend for another year, to July 1, 1953, permission for all members of the armed forces to hunt and fish in the state without a license. The law does not allow big-game (deer and bear) hunting without a permit.

Cleveland Rookie Fridley Early Grapefruit League Batting Star

Pounds Giant Pitching For .583 in 3 Games

Jim Fridley was just another name on the Cleveland roster when spring training began but today the husky 26-year-old rookie outfielder is a prime candidate for the regular right field berth.

Fridley, up from Dallas of the Texas League, is blasting away at a merry .583 clip and almost half of his blows have been for extra bases.

The freshman, who resides in Dayton, O., has banged seven hits, including two triples and a double in 12 times at bat against the New York Giants the past three days.

Fridley stands the best chance among the newcomers of sticking because he is a righthanded hitter. The only other orthodox swingers among the outfield candidates are rifle-armed Bob Kennedy, rookie Bud Hutson and Dino Restelli.

Dale Mitchell and Lary Doby appear certain of landing two of the outfield jobs. Other contestants are Paul Lehner, Barney McCosky and Harry Simmons, all left-handed hitters and switch-hitter, Pete Reiser. Another prospect, Dick Wakefield, was released by the Tribe yesterday.

Fridley belted two triples as the Indians turned back the Giants, 4-0, at Tucson, Ariz., yesterday. It was the Tribe's third straight victory over the National League champions. Steve Gromek, Dick Rozek and Red Fahr blanked the Giants on five hits.

The Giants' "B" team trounced the Chicago Cubs, 15-3, at Mesa, Ariz. Catcher Ray Noble pounded two homers and recruit outfielder Gail Henley chipped in with three singles and a double to lead the Giants' assault.

A's on Binge

Heavy hitting also featured the Philadelphia Athletics' 10-4 victory over a Boston Brave rookie squad at Bradenton, Fla. The A's collected 14 hits and sewed up the decision with five runs in the seventh inning. Carl Scheib, who won only one game last year, was the winning pitcher.

The Cincinnati Reds also enjoyed a big inning in their 10-4 verdict over the Philadelphia Phils at Clearwater Fla. The Reds shoved six runs home in the eighth to wrap it up. Joe Adcock climaxed the rally with a three-run double off Jim Konstanty. Ted Kluszewski launched the Reds' attack with a three-run homer in the sixth.

Manager Casey Stengel's fine collection of rookies led the New York Yankees to a 7-4 triumph over the Boston Red Sox at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Yanks amassed 17 hits, including a home run by newcomer Jim Brideweser.

The Washington Senators turned back the Detroit Tigers, 4-1, at Lakeland, Fla., and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Boston Braves, 8-5 at Bradenton, Fla., in other games.

Scheduled games between Pittsburgh and Hollywood of the Coast League at Anaheim, Calif., and the St. Louis Browns and Los Angeles of the Coast League at Burbank, Calif., were cancelled because of rain.

Three Openings

Troy, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Three berths are still open in the 12-team National Catholic Invitation basketball tournament. Director Tommy Thomas announced last night that Gannon College of Eric, Pa., and Scranton University had accepted bids. Gannon closed the regular season with a 12-12 record. Scranton won 14 and lost 13. The tourney opens Saturday at the RPI field house.

Don Evans Shares Top Billing With Vern Gagne at Auditorium Friday

'Kingston Killer' Meets Jack Allen, St. Louis Toughie

Don Evans, of nearby Flatbush, who is famous throughout the wrestling world as the "Kingston Killer," will share the spotlight with the sensational Verne Gagne on the professional wrestling card on Friday night at the municipal auditorium.

Evans is paired with Jack Allen, a newcomer from St. Louis, over the two out of three falls distance.

Vern Gagne, the new star of the Saturday night Chicago television network, meets the veteran Chris Zaharias in the feature bout, best of three falls.

A 30-minute time limit contest will complete the card for Promoter Ted Bayly's first promotion in Kingston.

Enthusiastic response to Promoter Bayly's double-barrelled attraction of two of the most prominent names in the wrestling game is reflected in heavy requests for tickets from Hudson, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and other mid-Hudson cities.

Rappaport, captain of the local team, announced that the annual Mid-Hudson tournament is scheduled in Newburgh on April 19.

Light Pay

San Francisco, March 11 (AP)—Middleweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson will draw his paycheck and box his final practice rounds today for his title defense against Carl (Bobo) Olson Thursday night. Promoter William Kyne will give Robinson $1 — the champ's share of the purse. Profits of the 15-rounder go to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Honor Old Timers

Carl "Dutch" Glaser and Joseph "Kid" Moore, two veteran baseball stars, will be the guests of honor at the second annual Old Timers Baseball dinner at 6:30 tonight at the Hofbrau.

St. Louis and Duquesne in NIT Debut; Bonnies Win; La Salle Upsets St. Johns

New York, March 11 (AP)—Eddie Hickey and Dudey Moore, whose St. Louis University and Duquesne teams make their first appearances in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, did a little scouting from the upstairs press box at Madison Square Garden last night.

They were somewhat less impressed by what they saw than the 18,310 enthusiastic fans who watched St. Bonaventure and LaSalle make their way into the semi-finals and Holy Cross come through belatedly with a smashing first-round victory.

St. Bonaventure, almost blowing a huge lead, barely outlasted Western Kentucky, 70-69. LaSalle provided the tournament's first real upset, whipping third-seeded St. John's of Brooklyn, 51-45.

Holy Cross came through with a flashy final quarter to rout Seattle University, 77-72.

O'Brien Sets Record

LaSalle's Norm Grekin broke the tournament record for foul shooting when he netted 13 free throws in the second game. This new tournament mark lasted only until the next contest when Seattle's little Johnny O'Brien, topped it with 15.

O'Brien who scored more than 1,000 points in the regular season was held to three field goals. But his foul shooting equalled the Garden record of 15, made in 1947 by Mac Otten of Bowling Green.

Hickey, the serious little St. Louis coach who has an intense dislike for "control" basketball, watched St. Bonaventure botch an effort to slow down the action against Western Kentucky and remarked:

"I don't think any team can be good without a fast break. St. Bonaventure essentially is not a fast-breaking team and it didn't have the weapon when it was pressed. The game demonstrated the value of a pressing defense."

Hickey Praises Bonnies

Hickey, whose team plays the Bonnies next if it wins, gave them credit for "playing beautiful ball until the press upset them." St. Bonaventure, slow to start, nearly broke the game apart in the third quarter to run up a 60-50 lead, but they were in trouble as soon as the scrappy Kentuckians went after the ball.

Moore credited the smart St. John's defense with holding Tom Gola, the touted La Salle freshman in check, but Ken Loeffler, the La Salle coach who has lost to Moore's Dukes once this season, had a different version.

"Both teams played a bad game," he said, "and we'd rather play anybody but Duquesne—even the Philadelphia Warriors."

KHSatMontPleasant; NFA-Albany Here

DUSO Basketball League prestige will be on the line tonight, when Kingston High faces Mont Pleasant at Saratoga Springs at 8 o'clock and Newburgh Free Academy tangles with Albany High at the Kingston municipal auditorium at the same time.

Mont Pleasant and Albany High are co-champions of the capital district. The Red Raiders have won the intersectionals the past two years. Newburgh, DUSO champion, carries a 19-game winning streak into tonight's game at the auditorium.

Harry Smith Set For Golden Gloves

Four defending champions have already sent in entries for the Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves tourney scheduled for Odd Fellows Hall, Albany, March 18 and 19.

The 1951 kings who will return to defend honors are Harry Smith, of Berkshire School, Canaan, who won the 126-open crown; Ken House, 175-open winner from Amsterdam; Joe Hudson of Albany, heavyweight champ, and Freddie Jackson of Troy, winner of the 112-pound open title last year. Jackson has stepped up a class this year and will seek honors on the 118-pound division.

Smith is considered one of the top mittslingers ever to compete in the Gloves meet. Two years ago he was awarded the trophy as the outstanding boy in the tourney.

House, Hudson and Jackson all attracted attention last year with impressive wins.

Honors will be at stake in both open and novice classes when the two-day meet is run off under the auspices of the Albany Elks Club. Champions in all divisions will be awarded Golden Gloves and the open class winners will be sent to Boston for the National AAU meet next month.

New York—Vince Martinez, 151½, Paterson, N. J., stopped Sal DiMartino, Hartford, Conn. (6).

New Hunting Laws Before Senate

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—The Senate was asked to give final legislative approval to a special big-game season for bow-and-arrow enthusiasts in New York state.

The measure, which cleared the Assembly last night, would permit archers to kill a bear and a buck deer or doe in the 14 days prior to the regular big-game season. A special $5.25 license would be required.

In other conservation actions:

1—The Senate gave final approval, 39-15, to a bill that would close the Beaverkill and Willowemoc streams in the Catskill Mountains as sources of municipal water supplies.

New York city opposed the measure, which was designed to protect the world-famous trout streams. The metropolis was reported to be planning new water-supply dams in the area covered by the streams.

2—The Assembly approved, and sent to the Senate, a bill to require all persons under 21 to pass an examination in the safe handling of firearms before receiving a hunting license. Present law requires such tests for those under 17.

3—The Assembly also sent to the Senate a measure to extend for another year, to July 1, 1953, permission for all members of the armed forces to hunt and fish in the state without a license. The law does not allow big-game (deer and bear) hunting without a permit.

Cleveland Rookie Fridley Early Grapefruit League Batting Star

Pounds Giant Pitching For .583 in 3 Games

Jim Fridley was just another name on the Cleveland roster when spring training began but today the husky 26-year-old rookie outfielder is a prime candidate for the regular right field berth.

Fridley, up from Dallas of the Texas League, is blasting away at a merry .583 clip and almost half of his blows have been for extra bases.

The freshman, who resides in Dayton, O., has banged seven hits, including two triples and a double in 12 times at bat against the New York Giants the past three days.

Fridley stands the best chance among the newcomers of sticking because he is a righthanded hitter. The only other orthodox swingers among the outfield candidates are rifle-armed Bob Kennedy, rookie Bud Hutson and Dino Restelli.

Dale Mitchell and Lary Doby appear certain of landing two of the outfield jobs. Other contestants are Paul Lehner, Barney McCosky and Harry Simmons, all left-handed hitters and switch-hitter, Pete Reiser. Another prospect, Dick Wakefield, was released by the Tribe yesterday.

Fridley belted two triples as the Indians turned back the Giants, 4-0, at Tucson, Ariz., yesterday. It was the Tribe's third straight victory over the National League champions. Steve Gromek, Dick Rozek and Red Fahr blanked the Giants on five hits.

The Giants' "B" team trounced the Chicago Cubs, 15-3, at Mesa, Ariz. Catcher Ray Noble pounded two homers and recruit outfielder Gail Henley chipped in with three singles and a double to lead the Giants' assault.

A's on Binge

Heavy hitting also featured the Philadelphia Athletics' 10-4 victory over a Boston Brave rookie squad at Bradenton, Fla. The A's collected 14 hits and sewed up the decision with five runs in the seventh inning. Carl Scheib, who won only one game last year, was the winning pitcher.

The Cincinnati Reds also enjoyed a big inning in their 10-4 verdict over the Philadelphia Phils at Clearwater Fla. The Reds shoved six runs home in the eighth to wrap it up. Joe Adcock climaxed the rally with a three-run double off Jim Konstanty. Ted Kluszewski launched the Reds' attack with a three-run homer in the sixth.

Manager Casey Stengel's fine collection of rookies led the New York Yankees to a 7-4 triumph over the Boston Red Sox at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Yanks amassed 17 hits, including a home run by newcomer Jim Brideweser.

The Washington Senators turned back the Detroit Tigers, 4-1, at Lakeland, Fla., and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Boston Braves, 8-5 at Bradenton, Fla., in other games.

Scheduled games between Pittsburgh and Hollywood of the Coast League at Anaheim, Calif., and the St. Louis Browns and Los Angeles of the Coast League at Burbank, Calif., were cancelled because of rain.

Three Openings

Troy, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Three berths are still open in the 12-team National Catholic Invitation basketball tournament. Director Tommy Thomas announced last night that Gannon College of Erie, Pa., and Scranton University had accepted bids. Gannon closed the regular season with a 12-12 record. Scranton won 14 and lost 13. The tourney opens Saturday at the RPI field house.

The Davenport girls—Martha, Beverly and Margaret Ann—finished fourth, fifth and sixth and Joan Keller was seventh in the Women's race. Barbara Davenport and Judy Strong, of Belleayre, were 10th and 11th.

In the Men's Race, Gordon Davenport, of Belleayre took third honors; Will Rogers was 13th; Bob Davenport, 18th; Billy Davenport, 19th; Roger Billings, 24th; Louis Kuntz 26th; Tommy Davenport 33rd; Danny Perlman 34th; John Keller, Peter Kushner, Raymond Krech and Irving Smith 38th, tied 40th and 41st, all of Belleayre out of a field of 48 entrants.

In the various divisions of the Junior Giant Slalom, girls 16 and 17, Martha Davenport trailed the winner, Margaret Ann Davenport, by 10 seconds. Joan Keller was third and Judy Strong, fifth.

Philip Davenport was second, followed by Fred Rogers and Richard Ballantine.

Conditions Excellent

Skiing and weather conditions were reported ideal and both days of competition attracted some of the finest skiing talent in the East. There were entries from Lake Placid, Old Forge, North Creek and Port Leyden of the Adirondack section; as well as skiers from Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut and New Jersey.

For most of them it was their first skiing in the Catskills. Both skiers and their coaches expressed amazement at the fine skiing terrain and facilities.

Traffic in the area was reported heavier than during the long Washington Birthday weekend and pressure on both clubs was terrific. State police reported that despite the traffic pressure there were no accidents.

The winner of the downhill race for men, Redmond Wilcox of Port Leyden is well known in Eastern skiing circles. In fact, he had just returned from the Junior Nationals in Colorado where he placed 14th, nationally.

Second in the downhill, Garry Vaughn of Old Forge, was the star of the winning Class A team at the Lake Placid King Winter Carnival. His run was notable not only for the excellent time but also for its flawless smoothness and stability.

Third in the downhill was Gordon Davenport of Accord. Gordon is a member of the Cornell ski team but raced Sunday as a member of the Belleayre Mt. Club. Other well known racers in the field were Tom LeFevbre and Will Morrison, both of whom were sent to the nationals this year.

Area skiers recruited from the Kingston High School squad and nearby Ellenville showed up to good advantage in the various events during the two-day tournaments that attracted large crowds.

The Davenport girls—Martha, Beverly and Margaret Ann—finished fourth, fifth and sixth and Joan Keller was seventh in the Women's race. Barbara Davenport and Judy Strong, of Belleayre, were 10th and 11th.

In the Men's Race, Gordon Davenport, of Belleayre took third honors; Will Rogers was 13th; Bob Davenport, 18th; Billy Davenport, 19th; Roger Billings, 24th; Louis Kuntz 26th; Tommy Davenport 33rd; Danny Perlman 34th; John Keller, Peter Kushner, Raymond Krech and Irving Smith 38th, tied 40th and 41st, all of Belleayre out of a field of 48 entrants.

In the various divisions of the Junior Giant Slalom, girls 16 and 17, Martha Davenport trailed the winner, Margaret Ann Davenport, by 10 seconds. Joan Keller was third and Judy Strong, fifth.

Those who won places in the Boys 16 and 17 were Tommy Davenport of Belleayre, 10th; Louis Kuntz, 13th; Lowell Brooks, 15th; Lynn Brooks, 16th.

Conditions Excellent

Skiing and weather conditions were reported ideal and both days of competition attracted some of the finest skiing talent in the East. There were entries from Lake Placid, Old Forge, North Creek and Port Leyden of the Adirondack section; as well as skiers from Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut and New Jersey.

For most of them it was their first skiing in the Catskills. Both skiers and their coaches expressed amazement at the fine skiing terrain and facilities.

Traffic in the area was reported heavier than during the long Washington Birthday weekend and pressure on both clubs was terrific. State police reported that despite the traffic pressure there were no accidents.

The winner of the downhill race for men, Redmond Wilcox of Port Leyden is well known in Eastern skiing circles. In fact, he had just returned from the Junior Nationals in Colorado where he placed 14th, nationally.

Second in the downhill, Garry Vaughn of Old Forge, was the star of the winning Class A team at the Lake Placid King Winter Carnival. His run was notable not only for the excellent time but also for its flawless smoothness and stability.

Third in the downhill was Gordon Davenport of Accord. Gordon is a member of the Cornell ski team but raced Sunday as a member of the Belleayre Mt. Club. Other well known racers in the field were Tom LeFevbre and Will Morrison, both of whom were sent to the nationals this year.

Training Camp News in Brief

Miami, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers will give rookie righthander Joe Black a chance to redeem himself Thursday night against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Black looked bad in a one-inning stint against Boston Saturday but Dressen wants another look.

"If he can go nine, we'll let him," Dressen said today. Black pitched in the Cuban League during the winter and is in shape to throw nine innings.

Mize Still Tough

Sarasota, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Veteran first baseman Johnny Mize of the New York Yankees is up to his old tricks—hitting in the clutch.

Mize, who figures to be used primarily as a pinch-hitter this year, socked a two-run double yesterday as the Yanks downed the Boston Red Sox, 7-4, at St. Petersburg.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 11 (AP)—New York Giant manager Leo Durocher is upset over the performance of his National League champions.

His regular pitchers are being hit hard and misplays have cost the Giants at least one game in their duel with the Cleveland Indians.

Yesterday, a second string of Indians beat the Giants, 4-0, while a "B" squad thumped the Chicago Cubs, 15-3. The Indians have won three straight from the Giants, as many as they won in 11 games from the New Yorkers last spring.

Tucson, Ariz., March 11 (AP)—You'd think Cleveland sent its pitchers to school, as well as the sluggers.

Steve Gromek, Dick Rozek and Red Fahr—none of them upper crust in Tribe hurling circles—held the New York Giants to five hits yesterday. Cleveland blanked the National League champs, 4-0.

Although the Indians made it three straight over the Giants, they haven't hit one homer so far.

Manager Al Lopez released Dick Wakefield yesterday, explaining the club already had enough outfielders who bat left-handed. Wakefield, one-time bonus baby, announced he would try to join Chicago. Paul Richards, manager of the White Sox with whom Wakefield refused to play two years ago, said he'd give him a trial.

Joneses and Wiltwycks Enter Mid-Hudson Play

Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors of the YMCA "A" League have entered the annual Mid-Hudson Valley basketball championships at Poughkeepsie. The Joneses play the Miros of Beacon in their first game at the Bridge City Y on Wednesday. Wiltwycks go against Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie on Friday.

Trinity Lutheran Near Cage Pennant

Trinity Lutheran virtually clinched the Senior Protestant Basketball League pennant last night with a 38-35 victory over the Progressive Baptists.

A victory over the YMCA Cadets in their next outing would assure the Lutherans of the pennant. The Trinity Juniors copped the Junior championship by winning 12 straight games.

Trinity had to stand off a dangerous rally by Progressives last night in what was perhaps the finest game of the schedule. The winners led 16-13 at the half and 29-22 at the three-quarter mark but were outscored 13-9 in the stretch.

Richie Gollnick and Roger Brandt scored 10 and 12 points for Trinity but John Burris, sharpshooting Progressive ace, was the individual leader with 22.

The boxscore:

Trinity Lutheran (38)

New Tax Bite

Albany, March 11 (AP)—Approval was forecast today by sponsors of legislation that would allow the city of Yonkers and five counties to levy a 15 per cent admissions tax at harness racing tracks. The "bite" would be in addition to the 15 per cent state tax that has been approved by the Senate and is expected to be passed by the Assembly this week.

Several players read the cards correctly and made three no-trump with the hand shown today when it came along in the Life Masters Pair Championship in New York. I wonder how many of my readers would play the hand in the same way.

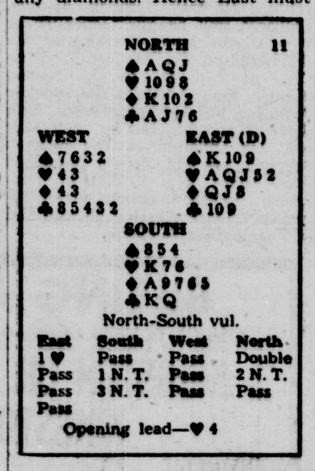
West opened the four of hearts, and East played the jack in the hope that South would take his trick at once. South played low, however, and East continued by taking the ace of hearts and then giving declarer the king of hearts.

South could now count on winning four clubs, two diamonds, a heart, and only one spade. The spade finesse could not be risked, because East surely had all the missing high cards for his opening bid of one heart.

How does South get his ninth trick without allowing East to set the contract by taking the rest of the established hearts?

South simply takes the king and queen of clubs and enters dummy with the king of diamonds to cash the ace and jack of clubs. East must make two discards on the third and fourth clubs. What can he spare?

East can spare one spade, but not a second; and he cannot spare any diamonds. Hence East must part with one of his precious hearts.



Now it is safe for declarer to take the ace of diamonds and give East his diamond trick. East can take his remaining heart, but must then lead spades away from his king up to dummy's queen, thus giving declarer a free finesse for his ninth trick.

Storm Warning

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The Washington Weather Bureau today ordered storm warnings along the Atlantic coast from Block Island to Cape Hatteras, including Delaware and Chesapeake Bays. The advisory, effective at 4 a. m. (EST), forecast for the area "35-50 mile-an-hour southerly winds today in connection with deep storm center moving north northeastward over the Great Lakes."

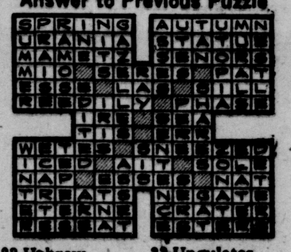
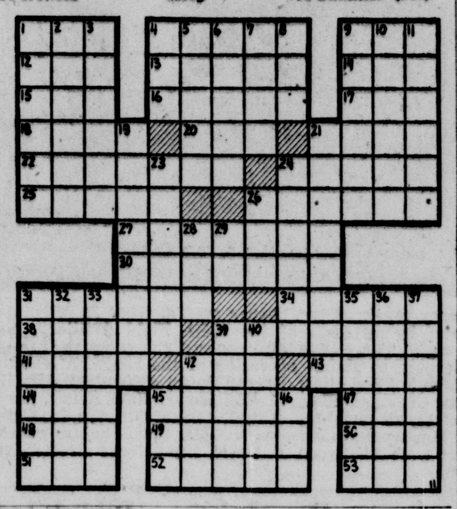
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Now Is Time to Decide on Spring Shrubs

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service

Early spring flowering shrubs add greatly to charm of the home grounds especially when the blooming dates of the chosen varieties extends the season. The length of bloom, or the amount of time the plants remain pleasing while in flower, varies with the type and with the season.

Easiest to bring in bloom are the forsythia, flowering peach, lilac, magnolia, spirea, deutzia gracilis, flowering dogwood and some of these azaleas. Because a location where light, heat and moisture can be controlled is necessary to force shrubs with root only folk with a greenhouse should make such an attempt.

Since planting about the average home is somewhat limited, the novice gardener must limit his choice of early spring-flowering shrubs to those kinds which are likewise beautiful when not in bloom.

The old gardener suggests consideration of the Japanese andromeda, Manchu cherry, Carle's fragrant viburnum and the Korean azalea. Of course a flowering dogwood and a forsythia or two must be included.

Japanese andromeda is listed by the nurserymen as pieris japonica. It is an excellent broad-leaved evergreen covered with lustrous dark green foliage and clusters of creamy white flowers appearing in mid-April.

This delightful small shrub, attaining a height of six feet in an ideal situation, can be grown in the shade but, like many other plants, will not produce as many flowers there as in full sun.

The Manchu cherry, prunus tomentosa, is an excellent shrub for the border as a specimen. The slightly white flowers appear in profusion before the leaves. The small scarlet edible cherries are most effective in June and July.

Carle's Viburnum is much admired for its clusters of flowers which are pink in the bud and white when open, and deliciously fragrant. An improved variety, viburnum carlcephalum, is now offered by a few nurserymen. This hybrid is hardier, a little more liberal with its blooms, and, disease resistant.

The Korean Azalea rhododendron mucronulatum is actually one of the very deciduous rhododendrons. Pale rosy purple flowers cover the tip growth in early-April, appearing long before the leaves. As further recommendation the foliage adds yellow and bronzy crimson to autumn coloration.

Because it blooms so early the flowers sometimes are killed by freezing weather, and it should be planted in some shaded spot where warm sun does not force the flowers to open prematurely.

Plants in a southern exposure have been known to bloom during a warm spell in early March.

The dogwood's delicate blossoms bring beauty wherever the tree grows.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slowdown of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. children were sent under guard to an undisclosed shelter.

Monaghan said police were "passing up nothing." They roamed used-car lots and garages for a suspected murder car. They followed up more than 100 "crackpot calls and boasts by barroom drunks." They rounded up dozens of known hoodlums in underworld haunts.

Watch for Clue

Young Schuster's funeral also came under tight scrutiny as a score of detectives and swarms of uniformed police, hoping to find a clue, watched a crowd of some 2,000 persons.

Mourners muttered threats of vengeance. Women wailed. Schuster's father, Max, and mother, Ethel, had to be supported. The mother collapsed at one time.

The only name mentioned in the police hunt thus far is that of Frederick J. (The Angel) Tenuto, a convicted murderer who broke out of Holmesburg, Pa., prison with Sutton in 1947.

Other theories are that Schuster might have been shot by a crackpot hero-worshipper, who took it upon himself to avenge Sutton, or by underworld figures who sought to make his death a warning to other citizens not to top police.

Monaghan, who suggested the $25,000 reward to the mayor, promised that any one who won it would not be named publicly.

The last and only $25,000 reward in the city's history still stands. It was posted after two

Town of Hurley Taxpayers Meet

A second organizational meeting of the Town of Hurley Taxpayers Association was held Monday night in the town hall at West Hurley. Seventeen new members were enrolled in the association.

The group voted to authorize a committee to obtain a copy of the by-laws of the Town of Esopus Taxpayers Association for study. It was also voted to lower the dues that had been established at the previous meeting.

The Hurley group extended invitations to John Grady, president of the Esopus Taxpayers group, to the mayor of [illegible] and to the president of the Association of Saugerties Taxpayers Association to speak at future meetings.

Election of permanent officers has been postponed pending further reports of committees. Harry Waage of Morgan Hill road was named temporary chairman for next week's meeting, with Ashbel Butler of West Hurley and Philip Metzger of Spillway road as alternates.

The next meeting was scheduled for Monday, March 24, at the schoolhouse in Glenford at 8 p. m.

Training Camp News in Brief

Miami, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers will give rookie righthander Joe Black a chance to redeem himself Thursday night against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Black looked bad in a one-inning stint against Boston Saturday but Dressen wants another look.

"If he can go nine, we'll let him," Dressen said today. Black pitched in the Cuban League during the winter and is in shape to throw nine innings.

Mize Still Tough

Sarasota, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Veteran first baseman Johnny Mize of the New York Yankees is up to his old tricks—hitting in the clutch.

Mize, who figures to be used primarily as a pinch-hitter this year, socked a two-run double yesterday as the Yanks downed the Boston Red Sox, 7-4, at St. Petersburg.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 11 (AP)—New York Giant manager Leo Durocher is upset over the performance of his National League champions.

His regular pitchers are being hit hard and misplays have cost the Giants at least one game in their duel with the Cleveland Indians.

Yesterday, a second string of Indians beat the Giants, 4-0, while a "B" squad thumped the Chicago Cubs, 15-3. The Indians have won three straight from the Giants, as many as they won in 11 games from the New Yorkers last spring.

Tucson, Ariz., March 11 (AP)—You'd think Cleveland sent its pitchers to school, as well as the sluggers.

Steve Gromek, Dick Rozek and Red Fahr—none of them upper crust in Tribe hurling circles—held the New York Giants to five hits yesterday. Cleveland blanked the National League champs, 4-0.

Although the Indians made it three straight over the Giants, they haven't hit one homer so far.

Manager Al Lopez released Dick Wakefield yesterday, explaining the club already had enough outfielders who bat left-handed. Wakefield, one-time bonus baby, announced he would try to join Chicago. Paul Richards, manager of the White Sox with whom Wakefield refused to play two years ago, said he'd give him a trial.

Trinity Lutheran Near Cage Pennant

Trinity Lutheran virtually clinched the Senior Protestant Basketball League pennant last night with a 38-35 victory over the Progressive Baptists.

A victory over the YMCA Cadets in their next outing would assure the Lutherans of the pennant. The Trinity Juniors copped the Junior championship by winning 12 straight games.

Trinity had to stand off a dangerous rally by Progressives last night in what was perhaps the finest game of the schedule. The winners led 16-13 at the half and 29-22 at the three-quarter mark but were outscored 13-9 in the stretch.

Richie Gollnick and Roger Brandt scored 10 and 12 points for Trinity but John Burris, sharpshooting Progressive ace, was the individual leader with 22.

Albany, March 11 (AP)—Approval was forecast today by sponsors of legislation that would allow the city of Yonkers and five counties to levy a 15 per cent admissions tax at harness racing tracks. The "bite" would be in addition to the 15 per cent state tax that has been approved by the Senate and is expected to be passed by the Assembly this week.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

How Would You Play This Hand?

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Several players read the cards correctly and made three no-trump with the hand shown today when it came along in the Life Masters Pair Championship in New York. I wonder how many of my readers would play the hand in the same way.

West opened the four of hearts, and East played the jack in the hope that South would take his trick at once. South played low, however, and East continued by taking the ace of hearts and then giving declarer the king of hearts.

South could now count on winning four clubs, two diamonds, a heart, and only one spade. The spade finesse could not be risked, because East surely had all the missing high cards for his opening bid of one heart.

How does South get his ninth trick without allowing East to set the contract by taking the rest of the established hearts?

South simply takes the king and queen of clubs and enters dummy with the king of diamonds to cash the ace and jack of clubs. East must make two discards on the third and fourth clubs. What can he spare?

East can spare one spade, but not a second; and he cannot spare any diamonds. Hence East must part with one of his precious hearts.

Now it is safe for declarer to take the ace of diamonds and give East his diamond trick. East can take his remaining heart, but must then lead spades away from his king up to dummy's queen, thus giving declarer a free finesse for his ninth trick.

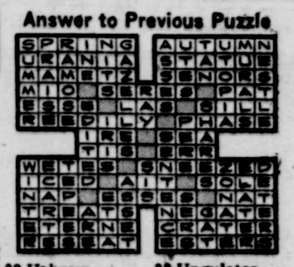
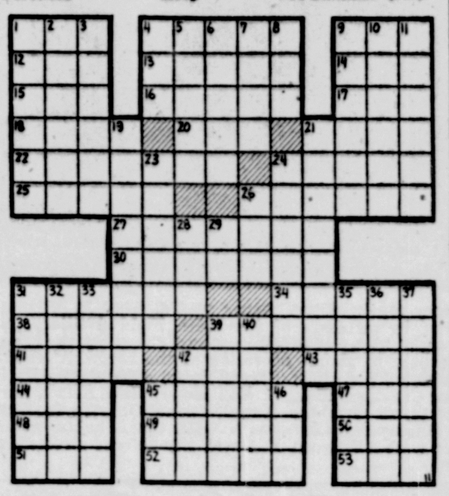
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Now Is Time to Decide on Spring Shrubs

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Service

Early spring flowering shrubs add greatly to charm of the home grounds especially when the blooming dates of the chosen varieties extends the season. The length of bloom, or the amount of time the plants remain pleasing while in flower, varies with the type and with the season.

Easiest to bring in bloom are the forsythia, flowering peach, lilac, magnolia, spirea, deutzia gracilis, flowering dogwood and some of these azaleas. Because a location where light, heat and moisture can be controlled is necessary to force shrubs with root only folk with a greenhouse should make such an attempt.

Since planting about the average home is somewhat limited, the novice gardener must limit his choice of early spring-flowering shrubs to those kinds which are likewise beautiful when not in bloom.

The old gardener suggests consideration of the Japanese andromeda, Manchu cherry, Carle's fragrant viburnum and the Korean azalea. Of course a flowering dogwood and a forsythia or two must be included.

Japanese andromeda is listed by the nurserymen as pieris japonica. It is an excellent broad-leaved evergreen covered with lustrous dark green foliage and clusters of creamy white flowers appearing in mid-April.

This delightful small shrub, attaining a height of six feet in an ideal situation, can be grown in the shade but, like many other plants, will not produce as many flowers there as in full sun.

The Manchu cherry, prunus tomentosa, is an excellent shrub for the border as a specimen. The slightly white flowers appear in profusion before the leaves. The small scarlet edible cherries are most effective in June and July.

Carle's Viburnum is much admired for its clusters of flowers which are pink in the bud and white when open, and deliciously fragrant. An improved variety, viburnum carlcephalum, is now offered by a few nurserymen. This hybrid is hardier, a little more liberal with its blooms, and, disease resistant.

The Korean Azalea rhododendron mucronulatum is actually one of the very deciduous rhododendrons. Pale rosy purple flowers cover the tip growth in early-April, appearing long before the leaves. As further recommendation the foliage adds yellow and bronzy crimson to autumn coloration.

Because it blooms so early the flowers sometimes are killed by freezing weather, and it should be planted in some shaded spot where warm sun does not force the flowers to open prematurely.

Plants in a southern exposure have been known to bloom during a warm spell in early March.

The dogwood's delicate blossoms bring beauty wherever the tree grows.

Death Threats Are

children were sent under guard to an undisclosed shelter.

Monaghan said police were "passing up nothing." They roamed used-car lots and garages for a suspected murder car. They followed up more than 100 "crackpot calls and boasts by barroom drunks." They rounded up dozens of known hoodlums in underworld haunts.

Watch for Clue

Young Schuster's funeral also came under tight scrutiny as a score of detectives and swarms of uniformed police, hoping to find a clue, watched a crowd of some 2,000 persons.

Mourners muttered threats of vengeance. Women wailed. Schuster's father, Max, and mother, Ethel, had to be supported. The mother collapsed at one time.

The only name mentioned in the police hunt thus far is that of Frederick J. (The Angel) Tenuto, a convicted murderer who broke out of Holmesburg, Pa., prison with Sutton in 1947.

Other theories are that Schuster might have been shot by a crackpot hero-worshipper, who took it upon himself to avenge Sutton, or by underworld figures who sought to make his death a warning to other citizens not to top police.

Monaghan, who suggested the $25,000 reward to the mayor, promised that any one who won it would not be named publicly.

The last and only $25,000 reward in the city's history still stands. It was posted after two detectives died in a bombing at the 1940 World's Fair.

Rewards totalling $12,000 already have been posted in the Schuster slaying by two New York newspapers and a television station.

Town of Hurley Taxpayers Meet

A second organizational meeting of the Town of Hurley Taxpayers Association was held Monday night in the town hall at West Hurley. Seventeen new members were enrolled in the association.

The group voted to authorize a committee to obtain a copy of the by-laws of the Town of Esopus Taxpayers Association for study. It was also voted to lower the dues that had been established at the previous meeting.

The Hurley group extended invitations to John Grady, president of the Esopus Taxpayers group, to the mayor of Kingston and to the president of the Town of Saugerties Taxpayers Association to speak at future meetings.

Election of permanent officers has been postponed pending further reports of committees. Harry Waage of Morgan Hill road was named temporary chairman for next week's meeting, with Kenneth Butler of West Hurley and Philip Metzger of Spillway road as alternates.

The next meeting was scheduled for Monday, March 24, at the schoolhouse in Glenford at 8 p. m.

Mayor Proclaims ORT Day in City

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk has proclaimed Wednesday, March 12, as "ORT Day in Kingston" in recognition of the work of the Women's American Organization for Rehabilitation through Training.

The ORT has maintained a world-wide network of vocational training schools and has rehabilitated the lives of many dislocated and uprooted Jews during its more than 70 years of operation. The Women's American ORT this year celebrates its 25th anniversary.

The mayor's proclamation notes that the organization has "dedicated itself to the uplifting of man, to the development of his self-reliance and economic security by providing him with skills and trades," and its program has "freed underprivileged people from a dependence upon charity and has made them productive citizens contributing to the economic upbuilding of the lands in which they live."

The proclamation further points out that the dignity and self-reliance with which this type of training invests the individual "enhances the democratic precepts" of America.

Diklich Is Warned In Assault Case

Peter Diklich, 41, of Shandaken was given a suspended six-month sentence by City Judge Raymond Mino this morning after Diklich pleaded guilty to a third degree assault charge.

Diklich was arrested at 3:30 a. m. Feb. 23 on complaint of Albert Salem of 62 Downs street, who alleged he was assaulted at Taylor's Restaurant on Broadway.

In passing sentence, Judge Mino noted that "it is probably true that if you were not under the influence of liquor . . . the possibility of this happening would be pretty remote." He added that this did not give the defendant the right "to take the law in your own hands."

The six-month sentence, the maximum allowed in third degree assault, was suspended by Judge Mino during good behavior.

Will Cost More

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The President's bomb shelter at the White House is going to cost $868,000 instead of $813,000, Congress learned today. Army engineers re-examined specifications for the shelter and recommended changes costing $55,000. In addition, other "protective measures" for the White House staff will cost about $70,000, Budget Director Frederick J. Lawton told the committee.

It is estimated that the United States uses about 28 million commercial Christmas trees a year.

Four Finalists Are

Marlin E. Morrette, and Attorney Thomas Plunket.

A spokesman for the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the Ulster County Talent Quest, stated today that it is planned to present 30 of the best amateur performers on April 2, when they will be auditioned by representatives of Ted Mack's staff. Whether or not any of the alternates chosen at the semi-finals here will appear, depends on how many other semi-final contests are held in other parts of the county, cancellations due to illness and other factors.

All three groups of judges in the Kingston contests stated that it was difficult to limit the selection to four winners and expressed the hope that some of the alternates could be auditioned in the finals. Plans for the finals will be discussed at a meeting of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce board of directors, tonight.

Strong Winds on Way

New York, March 11 (AP)—Rain and winds up to 40 miles an hour were predicted for the metropolitan area today. The Weather Bureau forecast said the rain, which started shortly after 1 a. m. (EST), would continue until tonight. Temperatures today will be in the 50's and drop to between 35 and 40 tonight. Strong southeast winds are expected to reach 50 miles an hour off the coast today.

A spokesman for the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the Ulster County Talent Quest, stated today that it is planned to present 30 of the best amateur performers on April 2, when they will be auditioned by representatives of Ted Mack's staff. Whether or not any of the alternates chosen at the semi-finals here will appear, depends on how many other semi-final contests are held in other parts of the county, cancellations due to illness and other factors.

All three groups of judges in the Kingston contests stated that it was difficult to limit the selection to four winners and expressed the hope that some of the alternates could be auditioned in the finals. Plans for the finals will be discussed at a meeting of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce board of directors, tonight.
